

A classified section, in a daily paper with the large circulation enjoyed by The Post-Crescent, is in reality a public utility. It is a big factor in the business and personal life of thousands of people. It is for this reason that the present catalogue system of grouping ads is to be put into effect.

The management believes that in adopting this new method, it will be able to create a greater interest and will be able to give a greater service to users of classified advertising than it has been capable of in the past.

Here's An Extraordinarily Convenient Way Of Finding Different Things You Need

APPLETON POST-CRESCENT

Classified Advertising

All ads are restricted to their proper classifications and regular Appleton Post-Crescent style of type. Daily rate per line for consecutive insertions:

Charges Cash	One day	10
	Five days	40
	Six days	50

Advertising ordered for irregular insertions takes the one time insertion rate, no ad taken for less than half a line.

Charged ads will be received by telephone and if paid at office within six days from the first day of insertion cash rate will be allowed.

Ads ordered for three days or six days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustment made at the rate earned.

Special rate for yearly advertising upon request.

Publishers reserve the right to edit or reject any classified advertising copy. Telephone 542, call for Ad. Taker.

The following classification headings appear in this newspaper in the numerical order here given. Classified advertisements being grouped together.

The individual advertisements are arranged under these headings in alphabetical order for quick reference.

ERIN AND TURKEY BACK PACT AGAINST OBSCENITY
Genova.—The Irish Free State, which was elected a member of the League of Nations last September, has just ratified its first league convention. Michael Mc White, the permanent Irish representative, here has informed the secretariat that the Dublin government has officially approved the treaty for the suppression of the traffic in obscene publications.
Ruchdi Boy, the Turkish minister at Bern, also has notified the league that he has been authorized to sign this convention in behalf of Turkey. Turkey is expected to apply for league membership as soon as the great powers have completed their ratification of the League of Nations treaty.

FIRST NOMINEE OF DEMOCRATS IS UNDERWOOD
Mention of Klan Throws Democratic Convention into Confusion

speakers who will do the nominating.
The clerk called the roll of states for the presidential nomination and Theodore Johnson took the platform to nominate Senator Oscar W. Underwood.

PRICK UP EARS
The convention displayed no more interest in the first nominating speech than it generally does to any, until Mr. Johnson got along to the point where he began to make references to the Ku Klux Klan issue. Then the convention began to sit up and take notice.

Once during the course of his address when Mr. Johnson brought the convention into a demonstration by the most direct reference to the Klan he had yet made, about half the delegates stood up and cheered and the other half remained silently in their seats. It was noticeable that most of the delegates from Georgia, Missouri, Iowa, Texas, Oklahoma and California remained seated while the demonstration was going on.

The Anti-Klan element in the convention openly regarded the demonstration as an anti-Klan demonstration and pointed the delegates which were not participating. In concluding his nominating speech Mr. Johnson read the anti-Klan plank he had proposed to the platform committee. When he got to the phrase which specially named the Ku Klux Klan another demonstration broke out. After a little milling, a parade started in the aisles and there were some of the usual contests over whether certain state standards were to go in. There was a scramble around the Missouri standard.

FIST FIGHT ENSUES
In the Colorado delegation there was another scramble approaching the proportions of a fist fight. One delegate was determined that the state standard would go in the anti-Klan demonstration and another was equally determined that it should not. In the milling in which some clothing was torn and much hair was rumpled the standard was wrecked and the contenders when separated by the police were in possession of the piece of wood on the floor the band swung into the "Star Spangled Banner" and that invariably brought all the scramblers to attention.

NOMINATES ROBINSON
When Mr. Johnson finished his address there was a demonstration for Senator Underwood. Then former Governor C. H. Brown of Arkansas took the platform and nominated Senator Robinson. Democratic leader in the senate. During his address it was apparent that the confusion of the anti-Klan demonstration had not yet quieted, and a buzz of controversial talk kept up on the convention floor, sometimes almost drowning out the speaker.

The Arkansas delegations led in cheering Senator Robinson after the nominating speech was concluded. Small California state flags were passed around to the McAdoo supporters in many parts of the hall and when former Senator Phelan took the platform to make the McAdoo nominating speech he was greeted by several minutes of cheering.
Twice during Mr. Phelan's speech Chairman Walsh had to intervene to quiet the convention, clear the aisles and still the general confusion so the speaker could be heard.
As Mr. Phelan drew toward the close of his speech the McAdoo managers who were making preparations for the McAdoo demonstration, gave their last orders and signals and rounded up their people. The whole front of the hall was banked soon with McAdoo men and women waiting for the word to cut loose. Throughout the delegate spaces were McAdoo lieutenants each in charge of a group.
At the signal which came with the concluding words of Mr. Phelan's speech the McAdoo demonstrators cut loose. The demonstration was noisy and prolonged and it was apparent that many of the demonstrators were not delegates as it was noticed that many delegates were remaining in their seats and taking no part in the show.

RIGID FOREIGN POLICY ASKED IN PLATFORM

Klan and Prohibition Issues Make Democratic Platform Task Difficult

listed as the subjects in which women had displayed special interest, conservation, the league of nations, the world court, home economics cooperation by the federal government, tariff reductions, establishment of a department of education, protection of the rights of Indians, civil service reform, equal rights, public and child welfare, social and prison reform, protection of women in industry and law enforcement.

Other suggestions advanced during the hearing included a plank proposed by William Jennings Bryan with campaign contributions and expenditures, declaration for Philippine independence, and pledges having to do with increased pay for postal workers, steps to combat the traffic in narcotic drugs at home and abroad, and suffrage for the district of Columbia.

Advocacy of a plank calling for American membership in the league of nations was led by Judge John W. Westcott of New Jersey, who twice placed Woodrow Wilson's name before the party for its presidential candidate and John Clarke, former associate justice of the United States supreme court, and president of the League of Nations National Nonpartisan association.

TALK FARM RELIEF
Varying views on farm relief were set forth by Carl Vrooman, for assistant secretary of agriculture, Representative Asael of Louisiana, Walton Petet, secretary of the national council of Cooperative Marketing associations, and Benjamin C. Marsh of the Farmer council.

Although no opponents of prohibition appeared before the committee its friends advanced conflicting views. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-saloon league, Bishop James J. Cannon, Jr., and others said they would be content with a simple "law enforcement" plank, but Oliver W. Stewart, of the Flying Squadron, Incorporated, advanced a declaration for rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

Owen D. Young, member of the Dawes committee, spoke on foreign relations, saying that two questions must be considered; first, a foreign policy, which is a moral question, and second, a question of machinery, which generally resolved itself into a question of expediency.

LEAGUE RESOLUTIONS
Senator King of Utah then read a resolution asking Mr. Young if it correctly reported his position. The resolution read:
"Resolved, that the United States should sympathetically cooperate with our former allies and the members of the league of nations having in view the ultimate decision of the United States to convenant with the league with proper reservations."

Mr. Young said the resolution was in accord with his views on the foreign question.
Active prosecution of the indicted former officials of the Veterans bureau was urged by a representative of former service men who presented recommendations for a plank which would declare for the proper treatment of disabled former service men, and would condemn the recent veto message of the president on the bonus question as "unnecessarily insulting" to the former service men. Among other subjects which they would have covered was a resolution for the mobilization of the material resources of the country along with the man power in case of another war.

PERSHING AGREES TO BE AT REUNION OF LES TERRIBLES

Milwaukee Is Making Elaborate Preparations for Annual Meeting

Appleton veterans who served with the Red Arrow division have been notified of the date of the fifth annual reunion of the Thirty-second or Red Arrow division, which will be Saturday, Sunday and Monday Sept. 13, 14 and 15 in Milwaukee. Many men who were with "Les Terribles" as they were known in France are planning to meet the old gang. Owing to the nearness of the convention city, it is expected that Appleton will be well represented this year. Probably 10,000 men will be in attendance from several states.

The fact that the Red Arrow convention is to be held three days prior to the national convention of the American Legion in St. Paul will enable many men from southern cities to make both conventions in one trip at reduced railroad fare.

Major General William G. Haan who commanded the division in action has announced that General John J. Pershing has accepted the invitation to be the principal speaker. General Haan now is a resident of Milwaukee and is participating actively in the convention arrangements.

At each reunion a time is set aside for a memorial service to pay tribute to the memory of the comrades who made the supreme sacrifice for their country. This meeting will be open to the general public.

Every man is urged to dig up his "G.P." shirt and the old overseas "chaps" for this will be the uniform for the monster military parade on Sunday afternoon headed by Generals Pershing and Haan.

MRS. BRIGHAM WILL OPEN TEAROOM NEAR COLLEGE

The As You Like It tearoom will be opened by Mrs. L. A. Brigham and her daughter Mrs. Dorothy B. Pierce, formerly of Chicago about July 1. Mrs. Brigham, who has been a teacher of piano at Lawrence Conservatory of Music for several years has resigned her position and will give all of her time to the management of the tearoom.

Mrs. Brigham purchased the home at 689 Lawrence-st across from Brook hall and has remodeled it to make a tea room on the first floor. The color scheme used for the dining rooms is black and yellow. The proprietors plan to have three meals a day and lunches. They will specialize in private parties having reserved a dining room with a fireplace for that purpose.

BIG INTEREST IN TALK ON GERMANY

Fear Congregational Church Won't Hold Crowd Eager to Hear von Lewinski

So great is the interest among the people of German descent in the address on Friday evening of Dr. Karl von Lewinski, counselor of the German embassy and representative of the German Republic before the Mixed Claims court at Washington, that it is feared that the Congregational church will not be large enough for the meeting. Dr. Lewinski's address is a part of the program of the convention of the Wisconsin State bar association to which the public has been invited.

Those who have known the speaker in Washington say that he is a very able man of pleasing personality. He is a fluent speaker.

His topic, "The Administration of Justice in the Courts of Germany," is of great interest to those people who know the German court system. It is of interest also to those who are interested in the administration of justice in any country.

LITTLE PROSPECT FOR CUT IN GAS PRICE HERE

There is a one and two cent cut in gas but in Appleton, Wis., according to information received from the gasoline distributors here on Wednesday, the places where gas is known to have been reduced include Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Kentucky and Ohio. The cause for the cut was indicated to be a piling up of gasoline stock in various sections of the middle west.

Wadhams, Standard, DeBauer and Deep Rock stations had no order to cut gasoline prices. At the DeBauer office, it was said that that company has had an indication of a higher price within a short time. There was no variation reported to be effective now, however.

Rector Visitor Here

The Rev. E. Knight, who is in charge of a number of Episcopalian missions in North Carolina, with headquarters at Rutherfordton, N. C. is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. O. Kelcher. Father Knight is a classmate of Mr. Kelcher. The Rev. E. P. Kelcher of Chilton, is spending two weeks in the North Carolina missions in order that Father Knight may have his vacation in Wisconsin.

BANK'S ACTION TO COLLECT $9,000 IS DEFERRED 2 MONTHS

Citizens National Bank Starts Suit to Recover on Notes

Owing to the fact that nine of the defendants in the case of Citizens National bank vs. H. A. Ott and other directors and stockholders of the now defunct Reliance Motor Truck company were not informed of the date of the trial, the case which was set for Tuesday morning has been adjourned until Sept. 4. Judge Beglinger of the circuit court at Oshkosh will preside in this case.

The Citizens National bank brought action against the defendants on a guarantee they are alleged to have made on the payment of certain notes to procure credit for the Reliance Motor Truck company. The amount asked by the bank together with interest due is approximately $9,000. Morgan and Johns represent the bank, while J. P. Frank of Appleton, M. E. Davis and John Reynolds of Green Bay represent some of the defendants.

The defendants in the case are H. A. Ott, J. W. Weyenberg, John Verbeten, Edwin T. Grundeman, Joseph Matenowski, William H. Behl, Charles Schuetz, Martin Verbeeten, Fred Wolf, Peter Lieterman, William Loben, A. G. Brusewitz, W. P. NEBRASKA KIWANIS ENTERTAIN DELEGATES

One of the features of the Kiwanis International convention from which J. L. Johns has returned was the entertainment given the delegates to the convention in Omaha on Sunday, July 15 by the Omaha Kiwanians. Mr. Johns said that the delegates were given an opportunity to see much of the Nebraska city, which is very attractive.

More than 6000 delegates attended the convention which began in Denver on Monday, June 16. There was an excellent program on which Mr. Johns will give a detailed report. A. G. Oosterhaus was an additional delegate from the Appleton club. He stopped in Denver for the convention on his way to the Pacific coast.

TAXES AND WASTE

Taxpayers should realize this. Many persons are concerned about our national debt. And yet, while the national debt averages about $200 for every American man, woman and child, the average debt of cities of 2500 population or over is more than $70 for every resident. Norfolk, Va., has the highest—$258.62 per capita. Municipalities' total debt already is more than a third the national debt. Moreover, cities' debts are increasing a billion dollars a year, while the national debt is going down that much and more.

On top of all this burden, taxpayers have enormous state debts and county debts. All of which are mounting steadily. Debt means that the future is being mortgaged. It can be mortgaged just so far—to the point where taxpayers will be unable to pay interest on the debt. Then there will come a day of reckoning.

Spending by states, counties and municipalities is for improvements, conduct of government, and for renewing old obligations as they fall due and can't be paid off. Where should economy begin? It depends on the particular community involved, no two of which have exactly the same situation to face. One obvious common solution is to pave roads for permanence instead of permitting their construction to be so poor that it goes to pieces and has to be patched in a matter of months.

Another is to reduce the excessive cost of administration. Bureaucratic government is costing the people annually scores of millions of dollars for which they receive absolutely no benefit. In Wisconsin alone, several million dollars annually represent pure waste in the maintenance of a top-heavy organization of boards, commissions, inspectors and what not. When the administrative branch of state government increases its payroll and expenses from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 in the short period of ten years, this represents the tax problem in an acute form. It is not altogether extravagant in public improvements that has brought high taxes. There has, of course, been waste and incompetency in this field, but the toll to politicians for the maintenance of machines is the chief burden.

The people can have tax reduction whenever they give themselves over seriously to practical methods for doing away with political tribute and the sinecures of office. Most of the so-called reformers, who have attacked these abuses, have been the worst offenders when they got into office. Instead of giving the people progressive, economical government, as they have asserted they would before elected, they have continued and even increased the extravagance of administration. We have a conspicuous example of it in this state. The causes for public dissatisfaction with government would be reduced ninety per cent if this wastefulness could be stopped, for there is no relief to the mind like that which comes from relief to the purse.

BASS VS. CARP

If the conservation commission of Wisconsin wishes to do something practical for the protection of Wisconsin's fish food supply, we will offer a suggestion. It has to do with the future of bass in Lake Michigan and its tributary waters. Black bass in these extensive and invaluable fishing grounds are threatened with extermination by carp. Within the last few years great schools of carp have pushed into the breeding grounds of the bass and are engaged in destroying the spawn. We doubt if there is a single breeding ground on the shores of Green Bay or Lake Michigan in northern Wisconsin which has not been invaded by carp.

This year, for the first time some of the larger breeding fields were literally alive with carp, plunging up the beds of the bass and playing havoc with the spawn. At one of these breeding spots, with a shore line of some two or three miles, there are hundreds of dead bass on the shores. Presumably they were killed by the carp while fighting to protect their beds. Between the carp and the fact that the taking of bass in these waters is permitted before the bass are through spawning and are still on their beds, this splendid game fish faces a hazardous future.

We do not know what can be done to drive the carp away from the bass breeding grounds, but it would seem to be a fair prophecy that either the carp or the bass must go. Carp are fast becoming a public plague. They are a menace to our game fish. No other nuisance relating to our fish problems can compare with them. It is easy enough to regulate the taking of fish and to enforce laws having to do with the fishermen themselves. But if Wisconsin wishes to preserve its far-famed bass supply it would seem that it will have to make relentless war on that roughneck and public marauder, the carp.

TWO YEARS OF DICTATORSHIP

Benito Mussolini, premier-dictator of Italy, leader of the Fascist, confronts a crisis. Rumors, censored, received in Paris signify that he is preparing to form a coalition cabinet, in which all parties will be represented except the socialist. Such a move would forecast the approach of his fall from office, if not free power.

The regime of Mussolini, apparently has accomplished the purpose of him and his followers, and Italy is declared by American visitors to be much improved in national spirit. It has not been all good; in particular, the circumstances under which the government was taken over and maintained by force constituted a dangerous precedent.

The Fascist movement was a revolt against extreme socialism and professional politics. Socialism had gained ground, not only by its own propaganda, but because the people had come to mistrust the integrity and sincerity of public officials. The public was disgusted with the self-interest of their servants.

The socialists, who are anxious to try out their fanciful theories, have felt bitter resentment toward Mussolini, and they have been contriving to bring about his downfall. Obviously, Mussolini plans to turn over the government, if he is defeated, to the liberals or conservatives, or both, with his own party retaining an active interest, and thereby bar the socialists from returning to office. Thus, he would, if forced to retire, still achieve his object. While the means used by Mussolini are open to question, and his methods cannot be approved, it must be conceded that he has demonstrated effectively to politicians and voters that administration for self and privilege brings revolt. He has given Italy an impressive lesson in reactionary politics.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

THE trials of poor mother run rampant all day and the kiddies it seems, are to blame. With mud-covered sandals they'll come in from play and the answer is always the same.
Some imprints from shoes travel all through the place from the kitchen way up to the front. It's always the youngsters whom mother can trace as the ones who are pulling this stunt.
They'll scuff through the parlor and mess up the floor and they'll scrape off their feet on a chair. Mom cleans up the house; then she cleans it some more, but the footprints will always be there.
At the end of the day, with the kids still at play, they are called to the supperside meal. They come with a romp, leaving mud as they stomp, and you know how their mother must feel.
Then Daddy comes home and his wife makes it clear that her rule over the kiddies is wanting. He listens quite patiently; lends her an ear, but he can't see just why she's complaining.
"Why, listen here, Mother," Dad finally will say, "I remember when I was a kid. And it seems that the stunts of the youngsters today are the very same things that I did!"

HIVES

Netterash, urticaria or hives come in three sizes, trial or sample size, household and hospital size. Then for exclusive patrons we have a special giant hive, sometimes called agio-neurotic edema. That doesn't signify that only neurotics have giant hives, but that only folks with wheels have hives in any way, shape or manner. That's my positive declaration about hives and I mean to stick to it, provided the printers spell the word as I do. Of course, if they see fit to correct my spelling, as they so often do, I shall not be willing to fight anybody to uphold the thesis. But I cannot state the central fact too emphatically: If you haven't got wheels you haven't got hives.

A wheel is a—well, take a nice fresh vigorous mosquito bite, or the bite of a flea if you prefer, that's a typical wheel. It is described as a circumscribed elevation of skin due to edema of the corium. The corium is the true skin under the epidermis. Edema means swelling from effusion of the serum of the blood (the watery part) through the blood vessel walls into the tissue. The finger-nail test of a wheel is the same as that of edema (dropical swelling) in general—pressure with edge of the finger-nail leaves a slowly disappearing dent or pitting. Wheals develop suddenly. First a reddened spot which itches, and in an hour or less the edematous swelling occurs, sometimes in a few minutes or even a few seconds, while you are looking at it. I had wheals—wheals, I mean, once and it would have been good sport watching and betting where the next one was coming, had it not been some one else's skin. A wheel seldom lasts longer than an hour—but while it lasts it is not at all modest about making itself felt. The more you scratch wheals the more wheals you'll have to scratch. Their characteristic tendency is to keep you guessing—they break out just where you are not scratching and contrary to the logical deduction your best policy is not to scratch anywhere and then they won't break out with so much enthusiasm. Once in a while a hive hangs on for two or three days, but there is generally no desquamation or peeling of the skin such as follows other skin rashes; that is, unless the victim infects himself by scratching and sets up a complicating skin inflammation—dermatitis.

Some individuals are predisposed to urticaria, or as the condition is now understood, sensitized. Others are more or less immune, perhaps showing little or no wheal formation even from the bite of a mosquito or the sting of a bee. Aside from the little we know about sensitization, allergy or anaphylaxis, the peculiar reaction to the entrance of a minute amount of foreign protein into the system of the sensitized individual, there is no satisfactory explanation of this variable susceptibility to hives.

Local causes of hives are the bites of fleas, mosquitoes, pediculi (company), bedbugs, wasps and bees, and contact with jellyfish, caterpillars or the weed called stinging nettle.

Constitutional causes make a list as long as my arm when I am reaching out to subscribe to a drive. Placed end to end, with barely space for a fat team to drive between the adjoining ends, the list would reach from the lower end of the headlines to the beginning of the story proper—and so you see it makes another story.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Softening of the Brain

Five years ago my husband died of paresis of twelve years standing. Now my son has had some brain disturbance for the past three months. Doctors have not said what it is. Can you give me the name of a publisher of a good book treating of hereditary syphilis? (Mrs. K. E.)

Answer—I know of no such book for lay readers. In my judgment it would be inadvisable for you to attempt to study the question of paresis of syphilis—just leave all that to the doctor.

Eating Ice

Is there any harm in eating ice? I have the habit of taking a piece of ice instead of water whenever I am thirsty. (Mrs. B. L.)

Answer—Yes, it is unnatural. Neither excessively hot nor excessively cold things should be taken into the stomach. Cancer has been ascribed to such irritation. You should drink cold water for thirst, iced beverages or ice, if frequently or habitually taken, will impair digestion.

Build Village For Bernhardt Close To Paris

(George London in LeJournal, Paris.)
Do you remember the plan advanced about a year ago, a few days following the death of Sarah Bernhardt, for the rebuilding of cities?

That powerful organization, which so magnificently contributed, after 1918, to the reconstruction of devastated regions, announced their intention to create near the limits of Paris a village bearing the name of the gifted tragedienne. This village was to have as inhabitants artists and authors who have found quietness, rest and peace necessary for their work. There they were to be able to develop their ideas in comfort and happiness in workshops and studios near to nature, away from those conditions which so disturb artists.

A noble project! Was it not only a vision. A year, passed without hearing any more talk of the village of Sarah Bernhardt.

No, the dream is becoming a reality. True to the tradition, the rebuilding of cities goes on in silence, but the task has been conducted so well that it is possible to announce today that the first dwellings in the village of Sarah Bernhardt are rapidly springing from the ground. A committee, presided over by the eminent philosopher, Henri Bergson, created the plans for the village.

Admire the breadth of the project! It brings together again the minister of the navy, M. Bokanowski and Frantz Jourdain; the marquis of Castellano and the socialist councillor-general, Henri Seller; Edmund Bonjean, president of the public health society, and Mlle Tarrade-Page.

Where are they building the village of Sarah Bernhardt, the construction of which was entrusted to the son of the favorite artist of the great Sarah Bernhardt, and to M. Payret-Dorville? To the south of Paris at Plessis-Robinson, between the plain of Chatillon and the valley of the Fontenay, upon a very picturesque site. Imagine a beautiful park with an area of 480 acres, planted with century-old oak trees, linden trees, plane trees, sycamores, and bordered on one side with a broad terrace which denominates the entire landscape.

The office of the settlement has 3,825,000 francs to its credit with which to build the village, construct the houses, build the roads and pay the salaries of the men in charge of the project. The houses, comprised of four or six apartments, will cost their artist-tenants 1,800 and 2,000 francs per year.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

HAPPY MARRIAGES vs "MANY MARRIAGES"

In his provocative "Clinical Notes" H. L. Mencken recently made the suggestion that some novelist might make a big hit by writing a realistic story of a happy marriage. Not necessarily "happy" in the "romanticistic" sense but in the sense that it comes off successfully, that it works. Mencken probably does not admit the existence of a happy marriage in the sense in which that term is used by the romantic novelist. To him marriage is a social adjustment that at best works only imperfectly. Mencken may be regarded as an authority because he is a bachelor!

But he points out that, strange as it may seem and although all the probabilities are against it, some marriages work and the contracting parties get something out of life. Some cases there are, he admits, where the adjustments are so reasonably perfect that they do not squeak too much. He even thinks that in quite a few cases men and women who are not carefully adjusted to each other learn to take each other in such a way that the satisfactions of the institution of marriage more than counterbalances the grief.

CHOOSE UNHAPPY ONES

But just about all the realistic novelists of the past decade, he points out, have been examining those marriages only that did not work. This whole school of fiction may perhaps be represented by Sherwood Anderson's "Many Marriages." That story is typical of the books that describe in realistic detail the troubles of married people who do not hit it off. There are innumerable such books—Robert Herrick's "Together," Theodore Dreiser's books, some of the stories of Joseph Hergesheimer, "Main Street," Floyd Dool, Willa Cather, to name but a few. Some of them are great novels, come not so great, but all have this in common that they are realistic studies of the marriage that fails.

The time has come, thinks Mencken, when someone—a novelist of first rank of course—can make a ten-strike by writing the story of a marriage that works, devoting to it the same clinical exactness of investigation and observation that the novelists now devote to the marriage that fails. There are of course plenty of stories of happy marriages, thousands of them, but what Mencken is asking for is not what some romantic novelist thinks a perfect marriage ought to be but what a novelist knows from observation a reasonably successful marriage to be. In other words he wants the treats treated in the scientific spirit.

NONE WROTE IT

He thinks the public is looking for such a novel but he has been looking about him in vain for one. He believes there is a wide field open for investigation that no novelist of first rank has as yet entered. Genuine distinction, lies in that direction, he believes.

The theory is ingenious but whether it is practical is another question. After all the realistic novelist depends for his effects on struggle, the clash of temperament, a battle between opposing forces of one kind or another, as does the romantic writer. Struggle makes a story, is more or less fundamental to it. In the typical realistic novel the battle is often not obvious but it usually underlies the story none the less.

And where does the battle come in in a marriage that works? People who are always insisting that the newspapers should not print stories of crime forget this same principal. Crime is dramatic, hence news; the everyday occurrences in which there is no clash, no struggle, are not dramatic, hence not news. The very people who call for that kind of news would be among the first to stop reading the newspapers that should literally follow their advice.

And a novel is merely a form of news, news usually about the less obvious phases of life. And can a novel be built around a relationship in which there is no struggle? It is doubtful.

EVERYONE'S DUTY TO BE HAPPY, DR. PLANTZ SAYS

Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, was the speaker of the union service of worship in the Chautauqua tent in Roe park, Oshkosh, Sunday evening. He talked on the importance of being happy, indicating that happiness is a state of mind, an ability to appreciate the things which one has.

Dr. Plantz told his audience that happiness is an obligation which rests upon the people, but to be happy, they must have faith in the moral things and the moral order of the world. He urged them to see the goodness at the heart of everything, claiming the skepticism and unbelief are the theory of gloom.

ARRESTS FOLLOW AUTO ACCIDENT

Frank and Thomas Verbrick of Appleton were arrested by Sheriff Charles Grosschel of Calumet-co and charged with driving a car while intoxicated as a result of the accident in which they figured on Highway 55 near Sherwood on June 14. The young men when arraigned before Justice John P. Hume entered a plea of not guilty. Their trial has been set for July 9.

Rudolph Jacobson, the third man implicated probably will be tried with the Verbricks as soon as he is able to leave the hospital. Verbricks' machine crashed into the car driven by Ray Oakley of Sherwood when Frank Verbrick was unable to control the car because of its terrific speed. Mr. and Mrs. Oakley, their small daughter and Jacobson were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. Both cars were badly damaged.

Sports Attire Will Play a Leading Part Vacationing at Home In the Country, At the Lakeside

There's just one thrill after another connected with a vacation. One of the most important is assembling your vacation apparel — especially your sport togs. Who has not experienced that genuine consolation when one is smartly attired? Here you will find colorful combinations that will satisfy every want in vacation wear.

Skirts With Pleats Lend Straight Graceful Line to the Figure

The pleated model is the ideal Skirt for wear when playing tennis. It is so comfortable and it is so fashionable too. Featured with knife pleats, box pleats, combination knife-box pleats and pretty wrap-arounds.

Wool Crepe Skirts $5.50 and $6.50

The colors are tan and grey. The same color in a wool yarn is worked into the crepe giving a self pleated effect. They are button trimmed in the wrap around style. Price $6.50. The plain knife pleated skirts are $5.50.

Box Pleated Skirts $7.50

Made of fine quality silk poplin with a high lustre—colors, tan and grey and white. Entirely pleated with a combination of knife and box pleats.

Pleated Silk Skirts $7.50

A clever combination of box pleats and self embroidered stripes in white silk crepe—two one inch box pleats alternating with an up and down pleat and one-half inch self-embroidered stripe.

Roshanara Silk Skirts $9.00

Roshanara silk fashions many of our newest sports skirts—combinations of three box pleats with six knife pleats gives you a full as well as a good-looking skirt. Colors tan and grey.

Camelhair Skirts $8.00

In the wrap-around style—a smart sports skirt to wear with the airy style sweater—various sized plaids in subdued color combinations.

Knife Pleated Silk Skirts $10.00

A very popular skirt is this wool crepe at $10.00 with its small stylish knife pleats—a quality crepe that holds the pleats—colors are light shades of tan and grey.

Dimity Blouses $1.95

Dimity Blouses are shown with tuxedo and Peter Pan collars edged with pleatings, ruffles, fancy edgings; some show vestees and pique, while others are combined with embroidered dimity. Colors blue, lavender, tan, white, toleec.

Sleeveless Blouses $11.00

The new sleeveless blouses are shown in crepe de chine with pleated bosom yokes of rich embroidered net, some shown with tiny pockets of net in all the popular shades.

Striped Silk Blouses $2.50 to $3

Just arrived a new line of broad cloth and striped silk blouses featuring the new cap sleeve, tucked bosoms, pleatings, club collars and the mannish vestees.

White Canton Blouses $8.50 to $10.00

White Canton Blouses feature pleated frills which harmonize so well with suits or sleeveless sweaters. Some are handdrawn, Peter Pan collars, while others show bosoms of valencienne lace and roll collars ending in a V neckline.

SLEEVELESS SWEATERS AND BLOUSES

When you see these smart sleeveless sweaters and blouses in our Sweater section, you will agree that they are even prettier than any you have seen. You will want plenty of them, especially now when you may choose such gorgeous ones here at such moderate prices.

"Kid Boots" Sweaters $3 to $5.50

The new "kid boots" sweaters are here in all the new shades and color combinations. Beautifully used to edge the cap sleeve. This quality material is the newest creation used for sweater borders.

Jumper Sweaters $4.95

A splendid assortment of silk tuxedo and jumper sweaters. Values up to $13.00. Special $4.95.

TOLD BY AN IDIOT RANKS AS GREATEST OF MACAULY BOOKS

Interesting Novel Is An Interesting History of Victorian England

"History like an idiot, repeats itself automatically." Rose Macaulay has made this bit of philosophy culled from the French of Paul Morand, the theme of her greatest work, "Told by an Idiot." In it she brings to life four generations of an English clergyman's family beginning with the late Victorian era, whose vivid lives and liberal tastes in art, religion, politics and literature stand out as a living picture upon a background of historical events. Various types of humanity are made to act, through the periods described, in a manner proving that although times apparently change, the motives underlying all social intercourse are immutable.

In her latest novel, which might serve excellently as a history of England from the reign of Queen Victoria to post-war days, Miss Macaulay displays a deep and sympathetic understanding of human frailty, and a tone of pleasant rillery does much to relieve the otherwise rather serious atmosphere.

Further, the book traces the development of the modern "flapper," with her freedom of thought and action and apparent lack of conventionality. There is tragedy as well as comedy in the story, but its general effect is one of highly entertaining, deeply interesting and pleasantly educational observation.

BY VINCENT D. ENGELS

FIDELIA. By Edwin Balmer, Dodd, Mead and Co.

It may be good for a man to "flower as he will," to think, untroubled by "patterned forms," to speak of what and when he will. It is quite in the mode these days to praise the unfettered soul, the unbridled tongue, but loose thinking, and superficial speaking, never has had and never will have a place in the scheme of laudable things.

Particularly, when a man writes a book is the judicious employment of a pruning knife to be desired heartily. Carefully trimming—here and there a branch, a twig, a stem, he may develop something of symmetry and purpose, in which all effort moves through a single channel, and the achievement is arching beauty.

Edwin Balmer mixes much that is splendid writing with some that is mediocre, and some that is utterly bad. The utility of many scattered efforts is seriously to be questioned. For when his book should be moving smoothly toward its accomplishment, it turns away, at times, sidetracked on some spur which leads to barren nowhere. That is always switched back to the proper line eventually is no vindication for Balmer.

In fairness it must be stated that these lapses occur with more frequency in the early chapters of the book. As the story progresses, the author's vision of his purpose seems to clarify and then the tale, relieved of the unprofitable position of its cargo, makes headway with good speed and all directness to the goal. And that goal is a worthy one, indeed; dramatic in its attainment.

Briefly, Balmer's story achieves a powerful climax, urgent, commanding recognition. Under its spell, one cannot soon forget the book.

Beautiful painted walls that may be washed and cleaned are the pride of every housekeeper. Artistic, velvety, rich toned surfaces may be easily obtained by painting with Saniflat, the Sanitary Flat Oil Finish, which may be washed repeatedly.

NEW BIRD BOOK IN PUBLIC LIBRARY GETS ATTENTION

Edna Ferber's "So Big" Still Is in Greatest Demand Here

One of the new books in Appleton Public Library that has been very popular recently is "Birds," written by Corrier. In the summer many folks like to study birds in their haunts and for those who enjoy this sport this book has a great appeal. The book is published by Dorance and Company.

Christopher Morely, author of "Where the Blue Begins," has another book, "Pandora Lifts the Lid," that rapidly is finding favor with more enthusiasts. George H. Doran and Company are the publishers of "Pandora Lifts the Lid."

"Pioneer West," written by Frances and published by Little, Brown and Company, is a story that will delight the hearts of those who like stories of the west and adventure. It is one of the best circulars at Appleton Public Library.

Still another book that continues in popularity is "Empty Hands" by Arthur Stringer, published by Bobbs-Merrill Co. This is another tale that is much in demand by those who like adventurous stories. To compile a list of the most popular books and leave out "So Big" by Edna Ferber would be an unpardonable crime, for Miss Ferber's book probably is the most popular in the library.

In the children's department the best circulars have been Altschuler's "Texan Scouts and Free Rangers" and the "Twin" books by L. F. Perkins. These include "The Belgian Twins," "The Irish Twins," and "The Mexican Twins." These books have increased in popularity since school is over and the little folks have more time to read what their fancy dictates.

Persons interested in history will be glad to know that one of the new books at the library is "Europe Since 1918," written by Herbert Adams Gibbons and published by the Century company. It is said that in this volume the reader will find a fair statement of the effect of the treaty of Versailles and other treaties upon Europe, the reparations crisis, the Ruhr expedition, conditions in Russia and Italy, the failure of Greece to revive the Byzantine empire, the Turkish nationalist movement and the first years of the new countries in Europe since the war.

"Every Teacher's Problems," W. E. Stark.

"Complete Poems," R. L. Stevenson.

"Complete Garden," A. D. Taylor.

"Etiquette for Everybody," Laura Thornborough.

The Publishers Tell Us—

In real life Margaret Rivers Larmine, whose latest work, "Deep Meadows," is published by G. P. Putnam's Sons is Mrs. Tragett, the All English tennis champion of Badminton. She lives in South Kensington. In the Hampshire Championships she has just been victorious in the ladies singles, mixed doubles, and ladies doubles. Her earlier "Search" would have been the novel of the year in London had it not been for Hutchinson's "If Winter Comes."

Robert Keable, author of "Simon Called Peter," and its best selling sequel, "Recompense," is coming to America this autumn for the first time. Likely he will lecture. Coincident with his arrival the play "Simon Called Peter," produced by Brady will open in New York, already having had a successful try-out in Chicago and elsewhere. And as further ammunition going toward making this a "Keable year," is the fact that Warner Brothers have just purchased the motion picture rights to "Recompense" and plan to make of it a feature motion picture in the very near future.

After a series of delays, Eugene O'Neill's play "ALL GOD'S CHILDREN GOT WINGS," has been produced by the Provincetown Players. Much discussion had been aroused by this play of white and negro intermarriages; there was difficulty in finding an actress to take the main part, which involved kissing a negro's hand; Mary Blair, who took the part, fell ill; and finally, the Mayor's Office refused to grant licenses to the eight children who take part in the opening scene, which depicts that childhood knows no color line. Nevertheless, the drama was produced before a quiet audience, the first scene being read to them. There was no disturbance of any kind. The performance can be seen only by members of the Provincetown Playhouse, but it is available in book form, together with WELDED by the same author, in a volume just published by Boni & Liveright.

You Get in This New Car Every Up-to-Date Feature

When you buy a car today, you have a right to ask for—

- the powerful performance of a master motor;
- the certain action of a clash-proof transmission;
- the cushioned comfort of balloon tires;
- the added safety of four-wheel brakes;
- and the assurance of a 100 per cent rear axle.

To buy a car that offers less is to choose a car no longer modern.

In the 1925 Chandler, you have the absolute freedom from gear-shifting evils provided only by the Traffic Transmission.

You have the matchless performance capacity of the Pikes Peak Motor—the pillow comfort of genuine super-size balloon tires (standard equipment)—and the extra security of front wheel brakes which Chandler offers optionally at a moderate extra charge.

See the 1925 Chandler! Drive it through an exhaustive test! No other car so splendidly combines all that progressive design has developed with all that sound engineering and public use have proved!

(The Traffic Transmission is built complete in the Chandler plant under Campbell patent)

WIFE, ESTRANGED IN PROSPERITY, NOW HELPS DR. COOK IN JAIL—

Artists of Swindle

ARTISTS of swindle—adroit exponents of the something-for-nothing, get-rich-quick scheme of things—have an axiom:

"Once a sucker, always a sucker." It is their little joke, told among themselves in their inner offices, in hotel lobbies.

Is there another axiom, just as self-evident in the get-rich-quick game:

"Once a 'bunk,' always a 'bunk'?"

DR. FREDERICK A. COOK, convicted of using the mails to defraud, is in his Texas cell, his oil promotion schemes history.

But this has not been the first time he was accused of having attempted to "bunk" the public.

Once he gave glowing accounts of having reached the peak of Mount McKinley.

Later he thrilled the world with announcement that he had attained the North Pole.

In Fort Worth he sought—HE DID—extract more money from people who had already lost money in wildcat oil promotions.

A NEWSPAPERMAN, Philip Gibbs of the London Chronicle, "blew up" Cook's claim of North Pole discovery.

Gibbs met Dr. Cook's ship at sea, on the return voyage, and obtained an interview with the explorer hours ahead of all the other newspaper men who were awaiting him in Copenhagen.

Dr. Cook's contradictions and the fact that he had absolutely no records to prove his claim of discovery, aroused Gibbs' suspicions.

Gibbs asked him for his diary. Cook replied with "a strange, defensive look" in his eyes that he had no diary.

"But surely," said Gibbs, "you have brought your journal with you? The essential papers?"

"I have no papers," replied the explorer, and his mouth hardened.

"Perhaps I could see your astronomical observations?" suggested the newspaper man.

"Haven't I told you that I have brought no papers?" came the answer in violently angry tone. "You believed Nansen, and Amundsen and Sverdrup. They had only their story to tell. Why don't you believe me?"

When Dr. Cook's boat neared Copenhagen, thousands of people had gathered to greet him. The water was crowded with craft of every size and type, from steam yachts to rowing boats, with flags flutter.

But Dr. Cook was hiding in his cabin, and had to be dragged forth. When he appeared on deck he had a livid look, according to Gibbs.

From thereon a coil of evidence was woven about him. Consistently it was shown that Dr. Cook had no papers nor no scientific proof that he had reached the North Pole. And in time the whole world was laughing at him.

DR. COOK'S conviction in the oil swindle cases at Ft. Worth, Texas, was accompanied by one of the most scathing denunciations ever uttered from a federal court bench.

"So you have nothing to say," Judge John M. Killits told him. "You have come to the point where your, peculiar personality fails you. The 20th century should be proud of you. History gave us Ananias and Sapphira. They are forgotten, but we still have Dr. Cook."

While he may never have had knowledge of the adage, Dr. Cook, too, seems to have worked on the principle of "once a sucker, always a sucker."

As president of the Petroleum Producers' Association, he worked a scheme of extracting more money from men and women who already had lost in oil "investments."

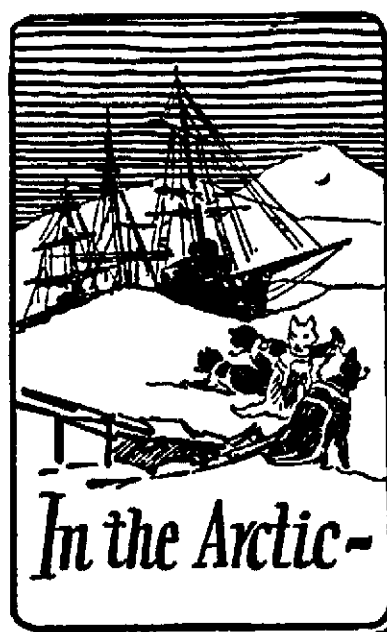

He sent out letters to stockholders of various oil companies informing them, as they already knew, that their stock stood against assets which had not been profitable. He would tell them further:

"In the present endeavor to protect and make profitable your investments, your lot has been cast with the Petroleum Producers' Association because of the advantage of greater united action and better financial and operating facilities."

DR. COOK, exploiting his schemes, would advertise:

"How Would You Like to See a Gusher Flowing Profits Directly Into Your Pockets?"

"That sounds like a foolish question, doesn't it, my dear friend? And I guess it is foolish question number about 2,492,223."

"I only wish I could get to let them know the truth." He has written several long statements about his case, but has been unable to distribute them because of the limitations of the postoffice department.

MONEY BURIED?

But even in Fort Worth are those who do not believe in the doctor. They are those who believe that out of the tangled affairs of the Petroleum Producers' Association Cook made much money.

And this money, they believe, is buried somewhere.

There are indications that, fanciful as this may seem, government investigators and at least one federal judge believes the money exists.

Not a clue has been found.

When postal inspectors arrested Cook they seized his books. Every cent that he was known to have taken in was accounted for in the books. They even showed that Cook was behind in his salary, and that the association owed him $20,000. But the theory grew that as head of this association Cook may have been in a position to make many deals on the side, or to make deals that were not entered on the books.

Cook, it is declared, made $500,000 in another oil deal before the one that caused his arrest. What happened to this money is not known, but it is possible that Cook spent it.

Cook laughs at the story that he has secreted millions of profits.

"Would I for a minute hide money in the ground when for $75,000 I could be free? I need that much for bail and I can't get it."

But there are some who think that Cook is too clever to have worked for two years on his oil deals without putting by something for a rainy day.

CONFESSED OIL SWINDLER TELLS HOW HE MILKED FORTUNE FROM SUCKERS

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is a confession of a Texas oil swindler. The promoter who wrote this operated in Fort Worth at the height of the oil boom, the heyday of Dr. Frederick A. Cook. The writer made his money—and paid the penalty. He was arrested by government agents and pleaded guilty. He has certified to the truth of his confession and government investigations of his records have substantiated it. The promoter referred to, of course, is not Dr. Cook.

I AM an oil promoter. For two years I made money. I would be making money at the game yet if the government hadn't stopped me.

I organized several companies. Altogether I realized $155,000 from the sale of stock. Crooked brokers probably sold another $100,000 short on me. I never saw that money.

I used to be a hotel man in Montana. I put $12,000, all I was worth, into an oil company. I spent my last cent coming to Fort Worth to find out why I didn't get dividends.

I found out.

The company was crooked. I was broke, so I went to work as a carpenter. As I saved, I thought a lot. If others could get rich selling oil stock, why couldn't I?

When I had $105 saved I took the step.

I sunk the whole pot in one advertisement, stating that I had organized an oil company, was going to sink wells and wanted the public to buy stock.

COULD RUN RESTAURANT

There was no blue sky law in Texas then, so I operated under a declaration of trust. This gave me power to do anything, even run a restaurant, with the money paid me by investors, if I wanted to.

It put me in absolute control. I could declare any and such dividends at any time I wanted. I could keep any amount of oil revenue for myself. It gave me everything and my stockholders nothing.

Of course, I didn't say that in my ad. All the promoter tells the investors is that he has organized a company under a declaration of trust and intends to start drilling when he gets his stock sold.

I had put my ad in a local paper.

MONEY POURS IN

The next day there was a flock of checks for $100 waiting in my mail.

I was through with carpentering for good. It's a lot easier going to the postoffice at $500 a trip than working eight hours a day in the Texas sun.

I kept on advertising and got all the money I wanted. Then I went out and drilled a well, and what was left over I pocketed.

I didn't strike oil. What did I want oil for, anyhow? I wasn't an operator. All I wanted to do was to sell stock in one company, drill a dry hole, and then get my investors to go with me in a new company and sell them some more stock.

The government couldn't prove I did not try to hit oil.

They called me a go-getter in Fort Worth. People wrote that they were naming their children after me. They thought I was a god because I advertised that I was one.

Women who bought my stock wrote proposals of marriage. That used to make my wife angry. But she knew I was a true blue fellow.

But what I'm driving at is that the oil promotion game is largely a skin game from start to finish.

A small man can't make money in oil—it's impossible. It costs almost $1,000,000 to strike a good well. The only ones who can make money are the big fellows—millionaires who can afford to lose.

But I was no worse than the rest of the promoters. All I learned was from watching other promoters.

NOT ASHAMED OF DEALS

I stung the investors, but I'm not ashamed of it. You may think I am hard boiled, but a fellow who hasn't any more sense than to buy oil stock without knowing the game ought to lose. It'll teach him a lesson.

And what difference does it make whether I get the money or someone else does?

The folks who buy oil stock and try to work on the promoter's sympathies by telling him hard-luck stories are usually fishing around to see if the promoter would be foolish enough to tell them his game was crooked.

They'd send five and ten dollars and then pull their gags. I'd keep the money, and knowing what they wanted, write back and say my company—whichever one I was then promoting—was the best little company in the whole country.

And wouldn't they fall for that! The fellow who was going to mortgage his home if he had to buy any more stock would get the money some place and shoot it in.

There have been some small companies that made money. They have been few and far between. Sometimes a hole has been drilled, with the hope and prayers of the promoter that no oil would be found, only to find oil.

An acquaintance of mine struck oil. This man was formerly a real estate salesman in Los Angeles. He had little education. He knew nothing about geology or oil production.

His entire stock in trade was ability to sell. He

McADOO FAMILIAR WITH PROBLEMS OF STATE, PHELAN SAYS

Californian is Pictured As Saviour of Country in Nomination Speech

New York—William G. McAdoo was placed in nomination for the presidency at the Democratic National convention Wednesday by former Senator James D. Phelan, of California, with the declaration that he is the "natural leader of progressive thought and achievement."

"This year demands the return of triumphant Democracy," said Mr. Phelan. "The progressives of the nation look to the Democratic party for their leader. Shall we give him to them? There is room in America for a party of reaction, and the Republicans have pre-empted that field. The nation's chance for success depends upon its choice for candidate for the presidency of this man."

Tracing Mr. McAdoo's career both in the government service and in private life, Mr. Phelan declared that the "vast problems of the continent are his familiar themes; the prosperity of farm and forest and mine, factors of natural growth and strength and transportation and irrigation, these are not strange subjects born of a restricted environment and narrow outlook."

"In the broadness of his vision, his sympathetic understanding, his aggressive personality, his burning patriotism, he is an ideal American," continued the speaker. "And so the country will accept him."

EAGER TO SERVE

"The vast machinery of the government rumbles discordantly along the road; the parts do not fit; the crew recruited and rebellious and the chosen chief engineers have been succeeded by the accident of one accident. Where should the people in all prudence turn? continue the inexperienced and inept, or take a trained and tried chief who can at once step into the cab and give command? We want a man who knows where he is going, and who is going where the people want him to go—capable, progressive, confident of his power and alert and eager to serve."

While Mr. McAdoo was secretary of the Treasury, the convention was told, he "cleansed it of the foul growth of favoritism and repelled the insidious attacks of the powerful, made it the repository of the people's hopes and the instrumental of sound finance, the safeguard of honest business and industrial prosperity."

"We honor President Wilson who left a great heritage of character and achievement to the Democracy," continued Mr. Phelan, "but we shall not forget the toll he has paid, the inspirer of ideas and the deer of things, the great secretary of the treasury in the most exacting and soul-testing administration since Lincoln's."

Asserting that Mr. McAdoo understands the farmer's problems far better than any other candidate for the presidency—either Democrat or Republican—Mr. Phelan added: "Today there has come another man from the west, another Old Hickory, with the same sympathy for the common man, the same heritage of American ideals, and an equal vision, courage and staunch determination. He will be, God willing, our next president. Who shall hesitate to employ such a man in an emergency like this? who shall dispute his claims? the appeal of patriotism should not be less urgent than the call of party. On behalf and in the name of Democracy of my state, I place in nomination such a man—William Gibbs McAdoo, of California."

up out of his cradle and shaved himself out of a clear sky.

"That man will be president," remarked his nurse, who was hard of hearing.

Now gentlemen and lady delegates, I present the name of Javal Whee to this convention in the hopes you will pay no attention to it.

Joking to one side or the other, a great many people seem to want to know who am I in favor of in the case that neither Mr. Whee or myself stampede the convention.

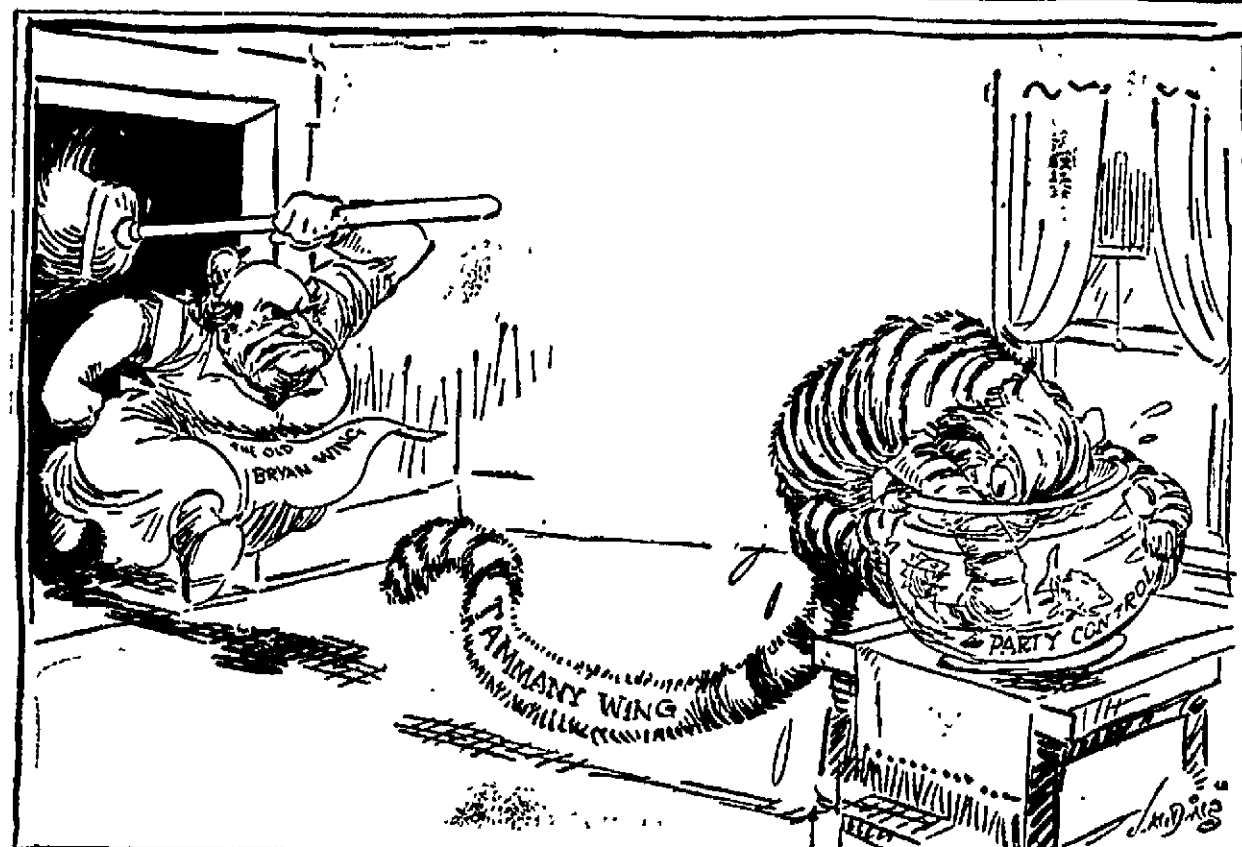

DISTINCTIVE NAME ESSENTIAL

Well, gentlemen I can not possibly vote for a man named Smith or a man named Davis because I suppose they would get elected and you would call them away to Washington and try to call them up, why you would look in the telephone directory and they'd be a hundred Smiths and Davises who you might call up by mistake and then where would you be? Leave us have a man with an odd name so as when you ask for information she will say Oh, you mean the president.

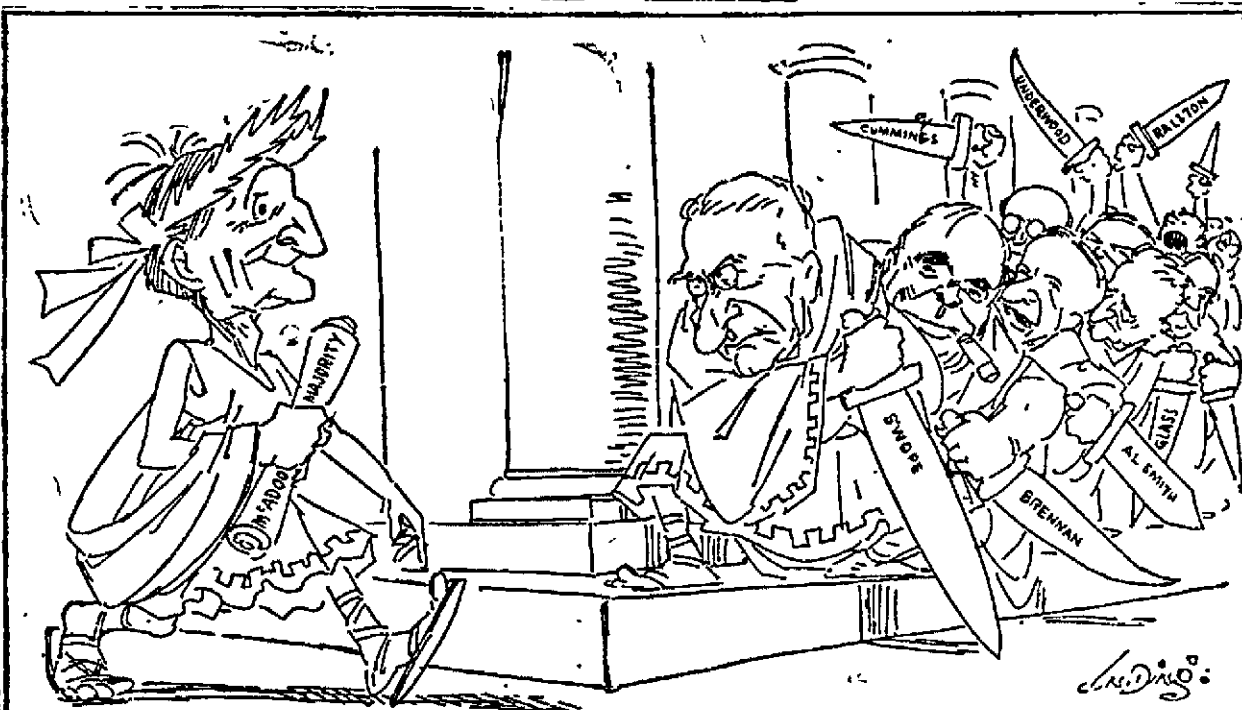

Now I was asked a little while ago to give advice to the visiting correspondents in regard to how to cover the convention. I give them this advice in so many words. In the first place try and find and write it down on a piece of paper because when I came back from San Francisco four years ago my Mrs. asked me where was the convention held and I could not tell her, and lots of wives will ask you the same question when you get home and what will you be able to say?

That is all the advice I have got to give to visiting newspaper men except to turn in your copy early in the morning about the next day's events because we are going to be here a long, long time. (I live here, that some of you is luckier. Copyright, 1924 by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

tion of the offenses of the "unfaithful public servants," Senator Walsh declared that it is in "this easy tolerance of turpitude in public office that the real peril to free government lies rather than in its casual occurrences."

"The president of the United States himself," he continued, "has not hesitated to endeavor to shield the delinquents from the public odium to which their derelictions have subjected them by joining in the hue and cry against the investigations that have been conducted under the authority of the senate and against that body for authorizing them. His message on the subject had for its plain purpose the suppression of an inquiry into the official conduct of a member of his cabinet. 'Senator Walsh said President Coolidge had history warrant for his attitude, recalling that when the British house of commons sought to investigate the Duke of Buckingham, Charles would not permit it.'

"Charles lost his head," the senator added, "and Calvin Coolidge may profit politically by his example."

INDIFFERENT TO CALAMITY

Declaring the Republican party to be important in the face of an impending national calamity, "Senator Walsh said that because of antagonisms within its ranks it had ceased to be an organization through which the business of the country can be carried on."

"It has no remedy, it offers no relief from the paralysis that afflicts agriculture, threatening every form of industry," the chairman said. "Moreover it finds itself plagued with representatives in both houses of congress holding views so radically antagonistic to those of the dominant faction in the party as to preclude the possibility of uniting on any program of legislation."

"Efforts of the dominant faction to shake off the insurgent members is as ludicrous as it will prove futile," the speaker continued, adding that they could not be shaken off because they have the indorsement of their people.

MUST NOT RAISE HOME ASSESSMENT

State Prevents Assessors from Adding to Levy Because of Homestead Act

By Associated Press

Madison, Wis., June 24.—State assessors Wednesday were advised by the state tax commission not to increase tax assessments on homesteads and similar property because of the $500 exemption provided by an act of the last legislature. The commission declared such action to be unauthorized and illegal.

The letter was sent to assessors as result of a letter addressed to the commission by Gov. Blaine and calling attention to reports of procedure of some assessors. The commission declared that although the effect of the exemption act may be to reduce the aggregate assessment of the district, it is intended for this reason and should be enforced.

The commission also addressed a letter to Gov. Blaine notifying him of its action. The commission's letter to assessors follows in part:

"Reports have reached this office that assessors in some localities are adding $500 to the assessment of homestead improvements so as to make the final assessment the same as before, and prevent a decrease in the aggregate assessment. This is a violation of the law and an effectual denial of the homestead exemption."

"If the present assessment of homestead improvements represents their approximate selling value, as the law requires, or all other property in the district, then there is no warrant or justification for adding $500 or any other sum to the assessment. Even where homestead improvements are assessed relatively lower than other property, or where all property in the district is assessed at less than selling value, it is not proper to arbitrarily increase the assessment of homesteads by the amount of the exemption. All classes of property, including homestead improvements, should be equalized as to exemption were to be allowed. It is for the clerk to deduct after the assessment is made."

The commission requested that whatever the assessors view toward the exemption law, the assessment should be made as directed.

PATIENT GERMAN TAKES GLOW WORMS OF OCEAN

By Associated Press

Hamburg.—A lot of perfectly good noddles, a sort of salt water "lightning bug" which is one of the commonest causes of phosphorescence in the sea, have been captured alive by Professor Kurt Hamdorf, of Hamburg. Cooped up in a bottle and taken into a dark room, they glow just like fire flies and glow worms. It was only after several months of patient endeavor that Prof. Hamdorf succeeded in capturing the noddles in the North Sea. He is using them here for experimental work. So much interest has been aroused by the professor's capture, that scientists from various parts of Germany have come here to look at the marine iridescence.

MONGOLIANS WERE AMERICAN INDIANS' ANCESTORS, CLAIM

Scientist of Smithsonian Institution Traces Ancestry of Red Man

By Associated Press

Santa Barbara, Cal.,—That the American Indians had an ancestry common with the Mongolian tribes of Siberia and crossed to Alaska over the Bering Sea are conclusions of John P. Harrington, of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mr. Harrington arrived at this belief after extensive research on the Pacific Coast. He fixes the discovery of America by the Indian at more than 20,000 years ago. Explaining his belief that the Indians went directly to Alaska across the Bering Sea, instead of over the chain of Aleutian islands at a time when the islands may have been an isthmus connecting the two continents, he says:

"From a long strip of Siberian coast the Alaska shore is in plain sight across Bering Strait, which at one point is only 50 miles in width. The two small Diomed Islands also help to break the passage. This strip of water at times is frozen over and could have been crossed either on the ice or in boats which were made by the Indians even at the earliest times."

Mr. Harrington discounts the theory advanced by some anthropologists that the Indians migrated from the Polynesian islands.

"From my studies of the Indian races of the Pacific Coast I believe that the Indians, after crossing from Siberia, gradually spread from Alaska down the Pacific Coast and thence over all North and South America. This is based on the singularity of physical characteristics, the widespread occurrence of customs and myths and an exhaustive study of the languages."

JAPANESE COMPANY WILL INTRODUCE RADIO CRAZE

By Associated Press

Tokio.—Radio broadcasting, an old story to Americans, has yet to be introduced to Japan, but the introduction is promised to come soon. Two Nagoya millionaires, Kinnosuke Kanno and Tomonouke Kadono, have applied to form and operate the Nagoya Radiophone Co., capitalized at $60,000 yen. The company expects to serve all central Japan with daily news, market and weather reports, later adding lectures and concerts.

not let it slumber and are sure to insist on a plank favorable to the league. Mr. McAdoo's position is that the league should be entered by the United States only after a national referendum. William Jennings Bryan favors the same thing. On the Ku Klux Klan plank agreement seems to be in sight and there is much less controversy about the prohibition question than there was four years ago. The platform will be brought in by the resolutions committee on Thursday but a debate on the floor appears inevitable with the final decision subject to balloting on specific planks by the convention itself.

Most of the opposition to McAdoo here has developed from the Ku Klux Klan issue and his supporters are anxious to have the plank adopted so that he can publicly say he stands on the plank therein. This may dispose of much of the antagonism he has encountered though when that is out of the way a revival of the oil issue would not be surprising.

The arguments of the McAdoo people on this phase of their campaign here are interesting. The keynote speech of Senator Pat Harrison pointed out with pride to the record of the Democratic administration in having a no-scandal record in eight years of power. So also do the friends of McAdoo contend that in five years and a half serving as secretary of the treasury and later as director general of railroads, handling twenty seven billions of dollars, not a single act can be pointed out as dishonest or improper in his official record. It is the principal answer made now by the McAdoo men and it will be their line of defense if he is nominated. But it has a weakness—many of the delegates are being urged to nominate someone who will not have to be on the defensive from the start. And that's where the dark horses hold their heads high with hope.

BoxingJackson Scholz Ranks
With Fastest Among
Olympic SprintersShattering Two World Records on Two Successive Days and Outsprinting the Great Paddock Make Him Formidable Rival.

Whatever Jackson Scholz does or does not do as a member of the American sprint team in the coming Olympic games he will always be known to posterity as the man who beat Paddock.

Until the New York German came up from nowhere to break two world records on successive days, with the ease and nonchalance of Mrs. O'Grady's goat going through a paper-mache fence, Paddock, "fastest human," stood out as the winged foot of the day and generation.

When the word came singing over the wires that Scholz had first run the 200 meters in 21 seconds flat, and again in 20.9-10 seconds, thus setting two new records within 48 hours, the incredulous villagers lifted high their raucous voices and demanded to know just what ticket the gentleman voted and why.

WAS A FLOP IN 1920

Well, to begin with, Scholz is no kid. Indeed he was good enough to make the Olympic team four years ago, but he wasn't good enough to threaten any records. His participation was restricted to taking the dust of other runners, and posing in the group pictures. He was just one of the boys who went along and saw the sights.

Previous to that he had done quite well by the good old Scholz name as a sprinter at University of Missouri. Bob Simpson, Missouri coach, took a deep and abiding interest in him, and made frequent predictions, within easy hearing distance of eager reporters, that Mrs. Scholz's boy, Jackson, some day would be a world beater.

Scholz rather dropped out of the running game after his uneven voyage with the 1920 team, and remained in a state of semiretirement until last winter when a patriotic urge to go out and do something really noble for the Stars and Stripes—and incidentally get another slant at the well dressed mannequins on the Paris boulevards—smote him squarely between the eyes.

SEASON OF DRUDGERY

Scholz entered all the indoor meets in the metropolitan district during the winter season and was consistently among the also rans. Churchill, Bowman, McAlister, Le-Coney and Hussey passed him with scant ceremony and perspiring huffs. Scholz smiled grimly and kept pounding away. His day would come later.

The rest is too well known to need repeating here. Any sprinter who can bust two world records wide open on successive days and run the legs off the great Paddock deserves to rank with the immortals. Whether Scholz will do as well abroad is something else. At least he is an unexpected and welcome addition to the team's sprinting strength.

Scholz wings into his topmost stride quicker than any sprinter in the game and that is the answer to his great success. Twelve yards away from the starting line he is swinging along at full speed. Most sprinters do not develop maximum power until they are fifteen or twenty yards from the line. A quick start helps and the sprint world has yet to see a quicker starter than Bob Simpson's old pupil.

APPLETON GOLFERS
SWING MEAN CLUB

The Riverview Country club's last two victories over the Fox River club of Green Bay and the Town and Country club of Fond du Lac show that the local club has some excellent golfers.

They staged a veritable field day last Saturday at the expense of the Fond du Lac talent by scoring 33 to the others' 14 points. In addition to the amateur wreckage they caused, was the defeat of Neal McIntyre, Fond du Lac professional, and H. G. Jackson, of Chicago, by Jim Rose and C. Walsh of Appleton. Jackson is the architect who is landscaping the 15-hole course of the Butte Des Morts Golf club of Appleton.

McIntyre, Walsh and Rose all shot 74 in the foursome, while Jackson got 75. It was two 35's by Jackson that was responsible for the Rose-Walsh win. Sixteen matches featured the inter-club match, a feature of which was the defeat of Kenneth Dickerson by B. K. Miller, Fond du Lac ace.

The batteries were: Bowler, Rachals and Klason; Marion, Murphy and Arnold. Other league scores last Sunday were: Tipton 7, Clintonville 7. Gresham 6, Shawano 4.

Green Bay Are National League Veterans

From all indications the scheduled fracas between Appleton and Green Bay of the Wisconsin States league in Brandt park here next Sunday afternoon will be a pitcher's battle worth going miles to see.

Eddie Stack, the steady heaver of the Packers, will clash for the first time with Bob Steel, new acquisition of Braby & Co. Steel has pitched but two games since he entered the circuit, but his exhibition in both events has led the Bay City fans to place great confidence in their team.

Interest in next Sunday's match will be heightened in no small degree by the coincidence that Steel and Stack both are veterans of the National league. Steel formerly took turns on the mound for the St. Louis Cardinals, while Stack is a former Chicago Cub pitcher. The Green Bay hurler also has done his stuff for the New York Giants and the Kenosha Simmonds Red company team of the Midwest league.

Stack has been going good all season, although his support was a bit wobbly at times. With all players working with the precision they showed last Sunday against Sheboygan, the team Sunday should be able to satisfy the fans with the kind of baseball they desire.

It is likely that a good sized delegation of rooters will come down for the game Sunday from Green Bay. Whenever these two teams are matched they usually draw a large attendance.

MENASHA BEATS ANTIGO
IN NINTH INNING RALLY

Menasha—The Menasha team of the State league defeated the strong Antigo team here Tuesday, 4 to 2. The winning runs were scored in the ninth inning on Schleske's single and successive doubles by Wurth and Muench. Melzer pitched wonderful ball and with the aid of the local new backstop, Handy, had the victor eating out of his hand, holding them to five scattered hits.

Milwaukee—Tommy O'Brien defeated Basil Gagliano in ten rounds, according to a newspaper decision.

Tommy O'Brien shaded Basil Gagliano in ten rounds.

Bud Gorman outpointed Joe Lohman in ten rounds.

Joe Azzarello shaded Joey Cline in five rounds.

Henry Heinemann shaded Jack Monohan in five rounds.

Milwaukee—Basil Gagliano, brown of skin, tumbled into the "resin" for a count of eight less than a minute after his glove quarrel with the pencil shaped Tommy O'Brien started out at the Arena Ice garden Tuesday night, and the fans who responded to the aid of the Thirty-second division doughboys started feeling around for their strawdribbles, expecting to make a hurried departure.

But Basil, strong of heart, struggled to one knee at the toll of five and at the eighth mark he jumped to his feet and thrice before the bell ended hostilities in the tenth round he left hooked the elongated Tommy and dropped him flat. O'Brien took no count on either occasion, and in the eighth he clipped the southerner smack on the jaw and dropped him to his knees.

Tuesday night's card was a sizzler. Although the 10-round semifinal between heavyweights was below par after all it must be remembered that the giants of the ring very seldom can keep the crowd in good humor.

Bud Gorman, weighing 203 pounds, outpointed Joe Lohman, Toledo, 177½ pounds. The latter was a midget compared to the Belle City fat boy. Bud carried too much extra weight around the waistline.

The bout that eclipsed all others, perhaps, was the second preliminary of five rounds. It involved two local prizes—Joe Azzarello, Third ward favorite, and Joey Cline, the South side favorite.

Among the men who will officiate at this regatta will be the most widely recognized authorities of speed boat racing from New York, Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago.

HOMEPLAYERS DROP
ONE TO GREEN BAY

Although batting honors were divided about evenly, a flock of errors brought about the defeat of the Appleton Regulars of the Home Players league at the hands of the Green Bay Clusman outfit in an otherwise interesting game at Appleton Sunday.

The score at the end of the ninth stood 10 to 5 with the margin for Green Bay. Carl Brautigan did the hurrying for the Regulars, while Ashman was at the receiving end. The batteries for Green Bay were Schuette and Bunker.

According to the present league standings, Green Bay ranks first and Appleton is second. After winning a series of games without tasting a single defeat, the Appleton Regulars lately have been on a losing slump. They will try to climb back toward first place next Sunday at Green Bay in a return game. As far as is known, the same batteries will be used.

New York—Paul Berlenbach, light heavyweight, will not fight Young Stribling, Macon Ga., in one of the Mink fund show bouts, state athletic commission officials said.

Cleveland—Coleman, 4 year old son of Belton, clipped a second off the world's record for the three quarter mile trot over a half mile track by making the distance in 1:24½.

FAST POWER BOATS WILL COMPETE IN OSHKOSH REGATTAEdsel Ford Has Been Invited to Enter Craft With Many Other Speedboats

Oshkosh—Seventy-nine entries made by 31 racing boats, seven of them with world's records, for the seventeenth annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association at Oshkosh July 3, 4 and 5 insure the greatest speed carnival ever staged by power boat men in this country.

Eleven events are scheduled on the three day program and they cover everything from a class for outboard motored craft to those carrying the heaviest power plant yet invented for the propulsion of boats. These racing crafts come from a score of cities in this country, covering a range from Minneapolis, Minn., to St. Petersburg, Florida, and including Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati, Peoria, Ill., Muscatine, Iowa, Evanson, Ill., Harvey, Ill., Racine, Wis., Ripon, Wis., Peoria, Ill., Oshkosh, Wis. and other points.

Minneapolis has entered Miss Liberty II, owned by Louis H. Piper. This craft was calculated to take the measure of the new Edsel Ford Nine-Ninety-Nine, built for the express purpose of winning the displacement boat championship of the world. Invitations have been sent to the owners of Nine-Ninety-Nine of Detroit, but up to date that craft has not yet been entered to clash with the Minneapolis wonder.

The Flour City boat won a heat from Webb Jay at one of the Pageant of Progress regatta, defeated all comers at Racine, Wis., last season and whipped them all on Lake Minnetonka in the autumn, consequently she is considered one of the most formidable in that division in the United States.

Among the men who will officiate at this regatta will be the most widely recognized authorities of speed boat racing from New York, Buffalo, Detroit and Chicago.

FREMONT AND DALE
IN PITCHERS' BATTLE

Fremont—In a thrilling contest here Sunday the Fremont American Legion defeated the Dale American Legion nine 4 to 0. Dale invaded Fremont with a reinforced lineup, for it was bolstered by the addition of Peck and Fay Smith of Hilbert and Delta.

Both pitchers had eight strikeouts to their credit, but Wall had the edge on Koch, allowing but five hits to Koch's eight. Errors accounted for all of Fremont's runs.

Batteries: For Fremont—Wall and Sasse; for Dale—Koch and Kuehl. Next Sunday Fremont will invade Greenville and a close contest is expected.

SISLER IS REINSTATED
BY LEAGUE MAGNATE

By Associated Press
Chicago—President Dan Johnson, of the American league, today reinstated George Sisler, manager of the St. Louis Browns who was indefinitely suspended Sunday with two other members of the club, as a result of a pop bottle shower directed at Umpire Howard Holmes.

Catcher Hal Collins of the Browns and Coach Jimmy Austin still are under suspension. President Johnson has not determined upon their punishment.

The shower of pop bottles came in the sixth inning of the Chicago-St. Louis game on Saturday, after Umpire Holmes had banished Sisler and the others from the game for protecting his decision on strikes and balls.

Fast-Slipping Yankees

From Rushing SenatorsWashington Perches on Top of American League Heap
When Both New York and Detroit Lose.

Washington, deprived of its politeness by New York, retaliated with a brilliant coup which moved the baseball capital of the nation from the Harlem river to the banks of the Potomac.

The Senators gained a full lap on the racing champions of the American League by beating New York to 4 to 3 in ten innings yesterday and jumped from third place to first. This is the first time the Washington club has headed Dan Johnston's circuit on June 25 or later. The bewildered Yankees, slapped three times within two days by the baseball politicians, managed to hold on to second as Detroit did a back dive from first to third by losing twice to the Browns, 7 to 5, and 5 to 1. Jacobson made two homers in the second game.

Boston, recent forceful contender for first place, saved itself the ignominy of falling into a tie for sixth by beating Philadelphia 4 to 1.

The ardor of the mad Indians, whose successful scalping of New York, Boston, Washington and Detroit, scrambled the league, was restrained by rain, which kept them idle at Chicago.

Cottum's consolation lies in the Giants who won their tenth straight game by adding Dazzy Vance, premier hurler of the two leagues, to their conquests and defeated Brooklyn 6-3. The stride of the Giants took them another half game away from Chicago, which with St. Louis was not scheduled.

McGraw's team now leads the National by two and one half games. Brooklyn holds third place by only two and one half games over the long threatening Pirates who beat Cincinnati 4 to 3 although Eppa Rixey did not allow a Corsair to reach first base until two hours out in the eighth inning. Boston defeated Philadelphia 4 to 2 as North defeated Carlson in a pitchers' battle.

SPORT VIEWS

Chick Evans finished up his golfing tour of Northeastern Wisconsin by taking Neal McIntyre into camp in a well played match over the course of the Town and Country club, Fond du Lac. This exhibition furnished many thrills for the large gallery of spectators as it was mighty close all the way.

Members of Marinette's state championship football squad are proud possessors of these days of sweater vests which were recently given to them by the Rotary club of Marinette. These tops are decorated with the varsity letter of the school. Twenty-five of these sweaters were donated by the club.

Thirty of the largest speed boats in the country have already been entered in the Oshkosh regatta, which holds forth over July 4th. Committee men in charge of the water classic predict that records in nearly every distance will be smashed to smithereens in the coming boating tournament.

Jack Schoendorf found Jimmy Nuss considerably more than a mere stepping stone to a match with Young Stribling. The Milwaukee scrapper had his hands full in the Green Bay conflict to get a draw with the De Pere idol. Nuss was not bothered at all by the "stuff" behind Schoendorf's blows.

Don Cupid has scored a win over Marty Below, Oshkosh, who captured the Badger eleven last season. Below will be married to Florence Fox, a pretty Wisconsin co-ed, whose home is in Glencoe, Ill. in the fall before Marty takes up his duties as varsity line coach under Jack Ryan at Madison.

Merrill, Antigo, Rhinelander and Tomahawk are not being troubled by the State league teams this season. Oshkosh lost a pair of games while touring the "bushes" while Fondy dropped three in a row last week. Antigo, with Earl Howard in the box has a win to its credit over the Neenah-Menasha Pals.

Battling Herb, the Oshkosh 123-pounder, is one of the best basic prospects turned out in the Valley in many a year. The youngster has won a raft of scraps in the past year. Unless Herb takes a bad slump, it won't be so long before he is fighting main encounters instead of preliminaries.

Jones, the Fond du Lac plying ace, had ten bucks lopped off his pay check by Umpire Herr in the same Green Bay. Jones was off the umps from the first on ball and strike decisions and he continued to grow hostile until Herr cut short his warlike attitude with a ten buck assessment.

COMBINED LOCKS
MEETS ILLINOIS
GIANTS FRIDAYIndustrial Team Will Try to Stop Winning Streak of Colored Ball Players

Out after big game, the Combined Locks Paper company team will take on the Illinois Giants aggregation of colored players in a tilt to be staged on the Combined Locks diamond Friday afternoon.

An interesting game is in prospect. For the Combined Locks outfit, with Marty Lamers as manager, has been strengthened with the addition of a few of last year's regulars, including Red and Les Smith, who also are with the Appleton State league team. As for the colored Giants, they need no introduction to fans in these parts, since they are well aware of their brand of fast baseball. Saturday they took an easy game from Kaukauna and Sunday they defeated the strong Antigo team. Besides being good ball players, they provide the crowds with plenty of amusement with their characteristic chatter and funny antics.

In order to accommodate the paper mill employees and others, the game will be played at 4 o'clock, and since this event involves an unusual expense an admission price of about 50 cents will be charged. Either Vanderveil or Lefty Smith will do the hurrying for Combined Locks.

The team also is depending upon one or the other for Saturday's game with the McMillen team of Oshkosh. This will take place at Oshkosh and will be a return game. The McMillens are out after revenge for the defeat administered here a week ago. Last Sunday the Oshkosh nine defeated the Fox River Paper company of Appleton.

Combined Locks last Saturday had a game scheduled with Ihrig Electric Washers of Oshkosh, but although they appeared at the grounds, the Oshkosh team canceled the game, because some of their players could not appear.

RIPON GETS COACH
FROM MINNEAPOLIS

Ripon—Car Doehring, coach of the Central High school, Minneapolis, has signed to coach Ripon college. It was announced today. For the past two years, the track teams at Minneapolis coached by Doehring have won the state championships by overwhelming scores. Last year in football the Central team tied for the city title. Doehring succeeds Guy Sundt, who has accepted the position as freshman coach at Wisconsin. Silas Johnson, a Wisconsin athlete, has been offered the position left vacant at Minneapolis by Doehring.

Baseball?

QUESTIONS

1. Can the batsman step out of his box to lace his shoe after he has once taken his position?—B. D.
2. Can base runners advance on a play in which a base runner is hit by a batted ball, for which he is called out?—B. D.
3. With first and second base occupied and one out, the batsman hits a high fly, which the umpire uses as an infield fly, and the outfielder makes the play and muffs the ball. Does it affect the original decision of the umpire? In other words must an infield fly be handled by an infielder?—B. H. B.
4. Runner on first and one out. The batsman grounds sharply to the first baseman, who touches first, retiring the batter, then throws the ball to the second baseman, who touches the bag but not the runner. Has a double play been made?—E. H. F.

ANSWERS

1. He can, if he requests the umpire to call time before the pitcher has started his delivery.
2. When a base runner is hit by a batted ball, he is immediately out, and no runners can advance unless forced to make room for the batsman, who is entitled to a hit and first base.
3. If the umpire rules an infield fly, it being his opinion an infielder can handle the ball, the batsman is out, even though an outfielder makes the play and muffs the ball.
4. Only one man has been retired on the play, the batsman. When the fielder touched first, retiring the batter, he removed the force, and mere touching of second base did not complete a double play. In such a case it is necessary to touch the runner.

PIKE NIGHT FEEDERS—Part II
Night fishing is quite a task for the novice and especially so during the dark evening. Yet the darker the evening, the better Mr. Pike will feed. One should get into the habit of "feeling" the line going out, and when the familiar pftunk reaches you it means "put on the thumb." Then, too, there are quite a few snags, and other things to steal a lure or two by becoming "hooked up" during the evening and, if one is fishing in swiftly moving waters there is little or no chance to release the lure, and the only salvation is to sacrifice the lure.

Artificial minnows, spinners and especially those of white, or white belled minnows are used successfully to catch pike after dark. An underwater lure should be used, and if one is fishing in swift water, one should be careful to retrieve the lure the minute it strikes the water, for a lure left in the stream while picking a "backlash" will twirl around and sink and undoubtedly become snagged. So if you "go after 'em" some time in waters of this calibre take a tip from the "old timer" and reel the lure in. Then strip your line and pick the backlash, spotting the line as evenly as possible so your troublesome backlash won't appear on the scene again.

BREWER FANS NEED NO RAIN CHECKS FOR
WEEKEND BASEBALLMilwaukee Has Never Lost a Home Game on Saturdays or Sundays

Milwaukee—"The luckiest man in baseball."

That's what Milwaukee fans call Otto Borchert, president of the local American Association team.

Five years ago "O. B." purchased the Brewers from Clarence Rowland, present American League umpire. In all this time he has not lost a single Saturday or Sunday game at home.

Not only has Borchert seen his team play with no rain interference but he has amassed a fortune in sales of players that cost little more than a song.

To wit:
Denny Gearin, Boston Braves, cost $750, sold for $25,000.

Joe Hauser, cost nothing sold for $25,000.

Al Simmons, cost nothing, sold for $60,000.

Glenn Myatt, cost nothing, included in Joe Hauser deal, sold for $50,000.

Wild Matthews, cost $1,000, sold for $15,000.

Jimmy Cooney cost $2,500, sold to St. Louis Cardinals for $15,000.

Hauser and Simmons Milwaukee boys, came direct from the sandlots, the same fields that produced Fred Luderus and Hay Felsch, well-known big leaguers of days gone by.

BOUT WITH CARP WILL GIVE FANS LINE ON TUNNEY

Gibbons and Burke Doubt Ability of Lightweight Aspirant

New York—The strange and perplexing case of Mr. James Joseph Tunney, known professionally as Gene, is to be wheeled back into the operating room for further clinical experiments.

Mr. Tunney, professing to the light heavyweight championship of America, has signed to exchange punches, as the saying goes, with Georges Carpentier, celebrated French foot racer, here next month.

Nobody seems to be able to state with any degree of positiveness whether Mr. Tunney, a native product of the A. E. F., is a first-class fighting unit or not.

We discussed his case with Martin Burke, champion heavyweight of the south, some days ago. Burke was brief and to the point.

"I think he's an awful tomato," he said.

NURSED ALONG

Burke, however, may have been mildly prejudiced, since the remarks were made several hours after a fight in which he had taken a severe wallop from Tunney.

Tommy Gibbons is another fighting gentleman who can hardly keep a straight face when Tunney's name is mentioned.

"I'll say this for him, though he uses beautiful English.

Gibbons, too, may be moderately prejudiced. The St. Paul shamrock has been trying, unsuccessfully, for several seasons to get a shot at Tunney.

Much of the skepticism regarding Tunney's ability grew out of the extreme caution with which his manager, the shrewd Billy Gibson, engineered his matches. If the boys looked too tough, Mr. Tunney was kept far away from them.

With the exception of the two Greb bouts, Tunney hasn't faced a really high grade battler. In the first Greb bout, Tunney was beaten. In the second he was victorious. In neither did he look the part of a sensation.

Gibbons, his manager, tells you Tunney is a greatly improved fighter and predicts he will beat Carpentier worse than Gibbons did at Michigan City.

WILL BEAT CARPENTIER

"I brought Tunney along slowly," says Gibson. "Just as I brought Benny Leonard along by easy stages Tunney didn't look any worse in his fledgling days than Benny did. Finally Benny reached his real form and won the world's lightweight championship. Tunney won the American light heavyweight title before reaching his top-most ability. Today he is really a great fighter."

Mr. Gibson is, of course, not unlike the common run of fight managers, and one should not take his enthusiasm too seriously.

Guess Again

DOUG WYCOFF

Atlanta—The hardest and longest hitter in southern collegiate baseball, is the title won by Douglas Wycoff, Georgia Tech star. Wycoff has a batting average of .508, and a flock of home runs to his credit. It is expected he will be given a tryout by one of the big league clubs.

LIONS AND KIWANIS CLUBS PLAY THURSDAY

Lions and Kiwanis clubs, each with a game on the win side of their ledger, hitch up for the third game in the L-A-R-K league in Jones park at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Kiwanis registered their win in the opening game of the season when they set down the Advertising club in a swat-fest, while the Lions tripped up the Rotarians in their opening game.

Lions and Kiwanis teams are said to be quite evenly matched. Both squads boast several deadly hitters and considerable fielding strength. The Lions played brilliant ball in the field last Monday afternoon, making sensational stops and playing a clever game all round. Connolly, Agrell, Emma and Frawley were given the best opportunities to shine and they made use of their chances, fielding faultlessly.

U. S. TENNIS ACES STAY IN RUNNING FOR TITLE

By Associated Press
Wimbledon, England—The big four of American Olympic lawn tennis players came through the second round of the Wimbledon singles tournament today unscathed. Norris Williams II, Francis T. Hunter and Vincent Richards made quick work of their opponents while Washburn had a narrow escape in his five set match with Col. G. Mays of England.

The American women stars did not do so well. The first two to appear Miss Edith Sigourney and Miss Elencor E. Sears, were eliminated in the single competition by their British opponents.

Miss Helen Wills and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup had comparatively easy matches. Miss Wills defeating her countrywoman Miss Lillian Scharman, and Mrs. Jessup winning from Mrs. Haster of England.

ORDINARY PLAYERS STAR AS COACHES, GEORGE HUFF SAYS

Number of Americans Learning Sport Mentorship Daily Increasing

Urbana, Ill.—More and more red-blooded young Americans who like sports and outdoor life are looking to athletic coaching as an inviting profession.

When the University of Illinois established a four-year course in athletics to coaching and granted a degree or bachelor of science to those who completed the work, this was regarded as a revolutionary step in academic circles. Now most educators concede that an athletic coach should be trained just like an engineer, lawyer, physician, teacher and so on.

Illinois has just graduated its second class of embryonic coaches—23 of them.

"One of the most interesting facts demonstrated is that a man does not have to be a star athlete to be a good coach," says George Huff, founder and director of the four-year course.

"The prospective coach must have some aptitude in sports so that he can play them but he does not have to be good enough to be a varsity player."

"Some of the best records as coaches which our first graduates have made by men who were not even good enough to win a place on a varsity squad."

RUNAWAY IS CAUSE OF INJURY TO TWO

John Homrig and Mr. Moderson Are Hurt by Frightened Team at Quarry

Special to Post-Crescent

Black Creek—John Homrig, manager at the quarry of the Outagamie County Limestone company, had his knee put out of joint in an accident about 1:30 Friday afternoon. Mr. Moderson, who resides on the Jake Kronz farm, was having his wagon loaded with crushed stone. When the stone struck the wagon, the horses became frightened and ran away. They were caught in the village. Mr. Homrig was on the wagon and he injured his knee by jumping and will be confined to his home for some time. Mr. Moderson held the horses at their heads and was knocked down. A horse stepped on his shoulder. He was bruised but no bones were broken.

ISSUE AUTO LICENSE EVERY 6 1/2 SECONDS

Madison—Wisconsin issued an automobile license every six and a half seconds during working hours from Jan. 1 to June 1. Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman announced Monday.

His figures show that in 116 working days of seven hours the state department issued 451,787 pleasure car and truck licenses, an average of 3,885 daily.

If all of the applications were on post cards, Zimmerman's statistician continues, and the cards piled one on top of the other, the pile would be 338 feet high, or 33 feet higher than the peak of the capitol dome.

License plates sent out weighed more than 220 tons, mail averaged 200 pounds a day and fees of $5,500,000, if paid in gold would weigh 11 tons.

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

In her French-heeled slippers and her filmy silk stockings she went out into the rich black furrows of the fields. "Asparagus," she ordered first. Then, "But where is it? Is that it?" "You dig for it, idiot," said Dirk, stooping, and taking from the basket the queerly sharp knife or spud used for cutting the asparagus shoots. Out the shoots three or four inches below the surface.

"Oh, let me do it!" She was down on her knees in the dirt, turned a goodly patch of the fine tender shoots, gave it up and sat watching Dirk's expert manipulation of the knife. "Let's have radishes, and corn, and tomatoes and lettuce and peas and artichokes and—"

"Archichokes grow in California, not Illinois!" He was more than usually uncommunicative, and noticeably moody.

Paula remarked it. "Why the Othello brown?"

"You didn't mean that rot, did you? about marrying a rich man?"

"Of course I meant it. What other sort of man do you think I ought to marry?" He looked at her, silently. She smiled. "Yes, wouldn't I make an ideal bride for a farmer?"

"I'm not a farmer."

"Well, architect then. Your job as draughtsman at Hollis & Sprague's must pay you all of twenty-five a week."

"Thirty-five," said Dirk, grimly. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Not a thing, darling." She stuck out one foot. "These slippers cost thirty."

"I won't be getting thirty-five a week all my life. You've got brains enough to know that. Eugene wouldn't be getting that much if he weren't the son of his father."

"The grandson of his grandfather," Paula corrected him. "And I'm not so sure he wouldn't. Gene's a born mechanic if they'd just let him work at it. He's crazy about engines and all that junk. But no—Millionaire Pack-er's Son Learns Business from Bot- tom Rung of Ladder." Picture of Gene in workman's overalls and cap in the Sunday papers. He drives to the office on Michigan at ten and leaves at five and he doesn't know a steer from a cow when he sees it."

"I don't care a damn about Gene. I'm talking about you. You were joking, weren't you?"

"I wasn't. I'd hate being poor, or even just moderately rich. I'm used to money—loads of it. I'm twenty-four. And I'm looking around."

He kicked an innervink desk-top with his foot. "You like me better than any man you know."

"Of course I do. Just my luck."

"Well, then, let's take these wedgies in and have 'em cooked in cream, as ordered."

She made a pretense of lifting the heavy basket. Dirk snatched it roughly out of her hand so that she gave a little cry and looked ruefully down at the red mark on her palm. He caught her by the shoulder—exactly shook her a little. Look here, Paula. Do you mean to tell me you'd marry a man simply because he happened to have a lot of money?"

"Perhaps not simply because he had a lot of money. But it certainly would be a factor, among other things. Certainly he would be preferable to a man who knocked me about the fields as if I were a bag of potatoes."

"Oh, forgive me But—listen, Paula. You know I'm—gosh!—And there I am stuck in an architect's office and it'll be years before I—"

"Yes, but it'll probably be years before I meet the millions I require, too. So why bother? And even if I do, you and I can be just as good friends."

"Oh, shut up. Don't pull that ingenu-ous stuff on me, please. Remember I've known you since you were ten years old."

"And you know just how black my teeth is, don't you, what? You want, really, some nice hearty lass who can tell asparagus from peas when she sees 'em, and who'll offer to race you from here to the kitchen."

"God forbids!"

Six months later Paula Arnold was married to Theodore A. Storm, a man of fifty, a friend of her father's, head of so many companies, stockholder in so many banks, director of so many corporations that even old Aug Hempel seemed a recluse from business in comparison. She never called him Teddy. No one ever did. Theodore Storm was a large man—not exactly stout perhaps, but flabby. His inches saved him from grossness. He had a large white serious face, fine thick dark hair, graying at the temples, and he dressed very well except for a leaning toward rather effeminate taste. He built for Paula a town house on the Lake Shore drive in the region known as the Gold Coast. The house looked like a restrained public library. There was a country place beyond Lake Forest far out on the north shore, sloping down to the lake and surrounded by acres of fine woodland, expertly parked. There were drives, ravines, brooks, bridges, hot-houses, stables, a race-track, gardens, dairies, fountains, rocky paths, keeper's cottages (twice the size of Paula's farmhouse). Within three years Paula had two children, a boy and a girl. "There! That's done," she said. Her marriage was a great mistake and she knew it. For the war, coming in 1914, a few months after her terests sky-rocketing. Millions of wedding, sent the Hempel-Arnold in-pounds of American beef and pork were shipped to Europe. In two years the Hempel fortune was greater than it ever had been. Paula was up to her eyes in relief work for Bleeding Belgium. All the Gold Coast was. The Beautiful Mrs. Theodore A. Storm in her Gift Shop Conducted for the relief of Bleeding Belgium.

Dirk had not seen her in months. She telephoned him unexpectedly one Friday afternoon in his office at Hollis & Sprague's.

"Come out and spend Saturday and Sunday with us, won't you? We're running away to the country this afternoon. I'm so sick of Bleeding Belgium, you can't imagine. I'm sending the children out this morning. I can't get away so early. I'll call for you in the roadster this afternoon at four and drive you out myself."

"I am going to spend the week-end with Mother. She's expecting me."

"Bring her along."

"She wouldn't come. You know she doesn't enjoy all that velvet-footed sector stuff."

"Oh, but we live quite simply out here, really. Just sort of rough it. Do come, Dirk. I've got some plans to talk over with you. How's the job?"

"Oh, good enough. There's very little building going on, you know."

"Will you come?"

"I don't think I—"

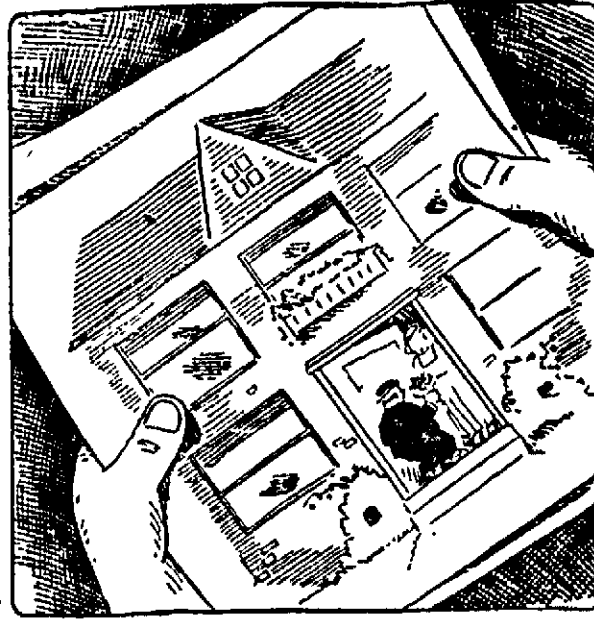

"I'll call for you at four. I'll be at the curb. Don't keep me waiting, will you? The cops fuss so if you park in the Loop after four."

Had Close Shave

"My wife and children thought I was dying when, after an attack of acute pains in my stomach, I became unconscious. It was right after our Sunday dinner. They say I looked like dead and guess I had a pretty close shave. I had been having more or less stomach trouble and bloating with gas for past two years and could get no permanent help. Talking with a friend about my attack, he advised me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. I have not had any gas or stomach trouble since taking it eighteen months ago." It is a simple, harmless preparation the removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists. adv.

Fresh Air, Good Food Assure Every Mother Of Strong Children

Daily Variation of Foods Will Avoid Set Habits for Young
—Mealtime in Every Home
Should Be Happy Time.

BY GRACE SCHUBERTSON
American Child Health Association
Home Economics Expert

Every mother today can gain health, happiness and a long life for her child. To do this, she must only train him in the right ways of living and teach him the habits of fresh air, cleanliness and, most important, of good food.

Food is, perhaps, more directly responsible than any one thing for good or bad health. The "new model" child, is the healthy, happy child who has learned to accept fresh air, good food and long hours of sleep as a matter of fact. Every parent wants a "new model" child.

No one food is adequate to supply the needs of the body, even milk, the most perfect of foods, is not sufficient in itself. Babies can live on a milk diet for a certain length of time because they possess, during the first year of their lives, a super abundance of iron, the element which milk, in a great degree, lacks.

SET HABITS BAD
Set food habits for children are bad. The mother must try to serve a different vegetable every day in addition to potatoes and another vegetable. She should teach her child to drink a glass of milk with each meal. She should show him how to adopt himself to any kind of food.

Variety in the preparation of food is almost as important as variety in selection. Learn different ways of preparing the same food, find how to use leftovers attractively, make food really interesting with new dishes.

Fruit, vegetables, cereals and milk are a necessary part of the daily menu. No other items are essential for a balanced health diet.

Food is not, however, the only essential for growth. The emotional life of the child is closely bound up with nutrition. Therefore, mealtime should always be a happy time. Never scold or nag while the child is eating.

Do not talk about the food in the presence of children. Take the items you serve as a matter of fact. Train your children to accept them naturally.

Do not try to break the child of bad food habits abruptly. If he loves candy or is used to coffee every morning decrease the amount of candy or coffee slowly.

SUBSTITUTION
As you take one harmful food away substitute a beneficial one. Build up a new habit as you break down an old one.

Serve food attractively. If you want to interest children. This includes pretty china, a well-arranged table, careful service.

It is better to give children a small quantity of everything on the table rather than a plateful of one food. They may come actively to dislike some one dish if they have too much of it and are expected to eat it all.

When teaching a child to eat a new food give it in combination with something he likes.

If both eggs and milk are distasteful don't serve them on the same day.

Most important of all, begin at once to teach your child good food habits. May 1, designated by the American Child Health Association and kindred organizations as a national child health day, is a good time to begin.

Household Suggestions

COVERS AND CURTAINS

Wash your cretonne covers or curtains in warm water in which soap and bran water are mixed.

SAVES LABOR

Wash every pan and kettle as soon as it is emptied, while it is still warm and the food has had no time to stick, and half the labor of dish-washing will be saved.

CLEANING BOTTLES

You can clean glass water bottles very easily if you let soapy water and coffee grounds stand in them for a while, then shake thoroughly before you wash and rinse.

ADD BORAX TO STARCH

Borax will whiten starch and give it a permanent stiffness because it penetrates the fabric more thoroughly.

KEEPS RANGE CLEAN

Always wipe the top of your range all over after cooking greasy food, and you will help polish it as well as keep it clean.

TURPENTINE HANDY

Keep turpentine on hand in your bathroom to keep the washbasin and tub free from spots.

Pleated Crepe

Bands of bright red silk add pep to this summer's sport costume of pleated white cotton crepe. A scarf of red, which is really a continuation of the collar, is a novel feature and may be adjusted in any number of interesting ways. Narrow bands of black and white embroidery edge the colored borders.

FASHION HINTS

BLACK MILAN
The hat of black milan with a black velvet brim and velvet ribbon is very fashionable for midsummer.

SHOE BUCKLES
Shoe buckles with bead or silk fringe that falls over the vamp are a novelty in slippers.

SHORT GLOVES
Short gloves of red or green suede are worn in pairs with sleeveless frocks of white silk.

LINGERIE BLOUSES
Lingerie blouses are embroidered and piped with color and worn with flannel skirts of the wrap-around type.

SQUARE NECKLINE
The square neckline is very quaint and effective on the picture frock with the close bodice and bouffant skirt.

NEW EFFECTS
Berthas and modifications of them, such as epaulets, shoulder ruffles and bib effects, are prominent in the newest dresses for little girls.

HEMSTITCHING
Hand-hemstitching and tiny embroidered designs trim some of the most beautiful georgette crepes for summer.

Good Manners

PAYING FIRST VISIT

In very large cities neighbors seldom call on one another. But if strangers move into a neighborhood in a small town or in the country, it is not only unfriendly but uncivil for their neighbors not to call. The older residents always call on the newer.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

(A Menu for the Stout and Thin).

EAT AND—

—Lose Weight— —Gain Weight—

Breakfast—One large glass orange juice, 1 soft boiled egg, 2 crisp pieces unbuttered gluten toast, 1 or 2 cups hot water.

Luncheon—Two lettuce sandwiches, 1 cup skimmed milk.

Dinner—One cup jellied bouillon, ½ broiled chicken, 4 tablespoons string beans, 4 radishes, 10 stalks asparagus on 2 ounces lettuce with 1 tablespoon boiled dressing, 2 tablespoons raspberry ice, 2 thin slices gluten bread.

Bedtime—One cup skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1098. Protein, 857; fat, 195; carbohydrate, 516. Iron, .0225 gram.

The lettuce sandwiches are made with whole wheat bread, unbuttered, and several leaves of head lettuce, carefully chilled and dried.

Serve the radishes with the bouillon. They furnish needed bulk and minerals.

If you prefer you may drink your entire pint of milk at noontime instead of having half for a "night cap."

It may help you in gauging your own meals if you know that 1 nice fat stalk of asparagus means about 5 calories. One pound of asparagus cooked, provides 39 calories of protein, 139 of fat and 41 of carbohydrate and .0043 gram of iron.

Breakfast—One large glass orange juice, ½ cup cooked wheat cereal, ½ cup cream, 1 soft boiled egg, 2 pieces crisp rye toast, 3 slices French toast, 3 tablespoons maple syrup, 1 or 2 cups hot water.

Mid-morning lunch—Two peanut butter sandwiches, 1 cup milk.

Luncheon—One hot cheese sandwich, ½ head lettuce with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 1 cup weak tea.

Four o'clock tea—One cup iced chocolate, 4 assorted sandwiches.

Dinner—One cup jellied bouillon 4 radishes, 3 ripe olives, ½ broiled chicken, 3 new potatoes in cream, 4 tablespoons butter string beans, 10 stalks asparagus on 2 ounces lettuce with 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 4 tablespoons raspberry ice, 1 large piece angel cake, 2 dinner rolls, 1 tablespoon butter.

Bedtime—One cup whole milk.

Total calories, 3963. Protein, 491; fat, 1540; carbohydrate, 1932. Iron, .0225 gram.

The assorted sandwiches are the ordinary tea size. Bran bread with raisins made into plain bread and butter sandwiches, cucumber with mayonnaise, lettuce with mayonnaise and preserved ginger and cream cheese sandwich were the assortment calculated.

The fattening foods are also the "heartening" foods and as the weather grows warm you will find it necessary to watch your diet and count your calories with even greater care. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Jean Patou Creation

This model is wearing one of the latest creations of Jean Patou that gives a very good idea of what skirt lengths and line for fall will be. The waist is lengthened and the skirt shortened until the belt practically cuts it half and half. There is nothing to relieve the severity of cut but the wide belt of white leather with markings in Chinese red. The dress and hat are of the same material, black kasha.

Adventures Of The Twins

JOHNNY CUT-OUT IN TROUBLE
The Cut-Out family was peculiar. They never did anything like anybody else.

The Cut-Out gentleman was a dude, to begin with. Like all the rest of his family he had been cut out of a fashion magazine and his clothes were a marvel!

And his wife! She set the fashion for everything in Doo-funny Land, and if she had chosen to wear her shoes on her head, I am perfectly sure that everybody else would have been doing the same thing inside of an hour and a half.

Here are some of the things they did. They slept in their clothes, and Mister Cut-Out didn't even take off his silk hat when he retired. Besides he insisted on taking his walking stick to bed with him.

Of course his clothes got wrinkled and he had to be ironed out—in fact they all did. A big book was the family clothes press and an hour or two in that freshened them up wonderfully.

The Cut-Outs never had washing day. Instead they had, once a week, a rubbing-out day, when Mrs. Cut-Out took a clean eraser and rubbed all the soiled spots off their paper clothes.

And the little Cut-Outs were the luckiest children ever, because they never had to have their faces washed in the morning for school. The whole family disliked water worse than cats.

Well, one morning Johnny Cut-Out got up and got ready to go to school. His mother rubbed all the dirty marks off his face and hands with her eraser and started him off.

"Do you know your lesson, Johnny?" she called after him.

"Yes, mother," replied Johnny.

"What is it, Johnny?" asked his mother.

"Use Smith's Ink! Ten cents a bottle," recited Johnny, for the place where he had been cut out of the magazine was an advertisement.

So away went Johnny to the Doo-funny School run by plain Miss Pithers, the yarn lady.

Now the Doo-funny School was like lots of other schools. It had some good boys and some who were not so good, and a few who were as bad as they could be.

And as Johnny Cut-Out in his spick and span clothes, was one of the good boys, the bad boys all hated him and made fun of him, I'm ashamed to say.

Today as he went walking along he kept saying his lesson over and over to himself. "Use Smith's Ink—ten cents a bottle. Use Smith's Ink—ten cents a bottle."

Suddenly there was a great splash and a shout, and poor Johnny Cut-Out was covered with ink from head to foot.

"Sure, we'll use Smith's Ink," yelled some dreadful voices. "It cost ten cents a bottle, but we don't mind that."

Johnny ran back home as fast as he could go, completely ruined from head to foot.

"Oh, whatever shall I do, Johnny?" cried his mother. "My eraser won't take that off and no amount of new clothes will cover your face. You'll be a black boy as long as you live."

"Soak him in sour milk," advised Nancy.

And Mrs. Cut-Out did and it took all the ink off.

"You Can't Beat It!"

Today as he went walking along he kept saying his lesson over and over to himself. "Use Smith's Ink—ten cents a bottle. Use Smith's Ink—ten cents a bottle."

Suddenly there was a great splash and a shout, and poor Johnny Cut-Out was covered with ink from head to foot.

"Sure, we'll use Smith's Ink," yelled some dreadful voices. "It cost ten cents a bottle, but we don't mind that."

Johnny ran back home as fast as he could go, completely ruined from head to foot.

"Oh, whatever shall I do, Johnny?" cried his mother. "My eraser won't take that off and no amount of new clothes will cover your face. You'll be a black boy as long as you live."

"Soak him in sour milk," advised Nancy.

And Mrs. Cut-Out did and it took all the ink off.

SPENCER PRESIDES AT BANQUET FOR BADGER LAWYERS

Two Judges and Former Governor on Banquet Speaking Program

One of the social features on the program for the annual convention of Wisconsin Bar association to be held in Appleton Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be a banquet for visitors at 6:30 Saturday evening at Conway hotel. Judge A. M. Spencer will be toastmaster and among the speakers will be the Hon. Burr Jones of Madison, member of Wisconsin supreme court, former Governor Francis E. McGovern, of Milwaukee and Judge E. V. Werner of Shawano. Other features planned by the entertainment committee include an automobile ride through Fox river valley and a trip through a papermill. Committees in charge of the convention made their final reports at the luncheon of Outagamie County Bar association Monday noon at Conway hotel. They showed that all details were completed and that reservations were coming in from all parts of the state.

Joe Martin Coming Here With Al G. Barnes Show

One of the greatest movie-stars is coming to Appleton on Saturday, June 28 with the Al G. Barnes wild animal circus. The movie star, whose name has been on the lips of motion picture fans throughout the country, and who has appeared in some of the most spectacular films released in the past year, has signed up with the Al G. Barnes circus. Mr. Barnes secured him from the Universal Motion Picture Corporation at Universal City, at a cost of $25,000.00, after the famous star had evinced the desire to try his hand at circus life. The movie star is none other than Joe Martin. In addition, you will see Lotus, largest and only performing blood-sweating hippopotamus in the world, who eats a bale of hay and a bushel of carrots at every sitting. But the greatest sensation on the big program is the gigantic extravaganza, "Pocahontas at the Court of Queen Anne," the colossal feature that opens the entertainment.

NO LOCAL WOMEN IN NORTHEAST TOURNEY

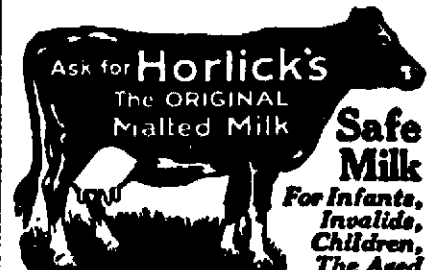

No women golfers from Riverview country club had planned Wednesday to enter the Women's Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association tournament at the Fox River country club in Green Bay on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Women of the Green Bay club were making preparations, however, for entrants in the tournament from Marinette, Menominee, Manitowish, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Wausau, Oshkosh, Wisconsin Rapids, Green Bay and Appleton.

Mrs. George Hamilton of Two Rivers, present champion of the association will defend her title. Ten carpenters have been at work remodeling the locker-room at the clubhouse and making other minor improvements before the visitors are entertained. Luncheons will be served daily to the participants in the tournament.

Give Away Tickets
Ten tickets to the Al G. Barnes circus will be given away at "Circus Night" party at Brighton beach Wednesday evening. Tickets will be given to dancers.

INVITE HAY GROWERS TO GREEN BAY HEARING

Hay growers of Outagamie county through R. A. Amundson, county agricultural agent, have been extended an invitation to attend a hearing on standardization of the grading of hay which will be held in the courthouse at Green Bay at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. The invitation comes from Callari Brothers, Green Bay hay shippers, who are bringing several federal officials to talk on better methods of growing, handling, baling and inspection of hay. Hay, especially alfalfa, has become an important crop of Outagamie county, and a number of farmers may go to the meeting. The meeting will be presided over by Edward C. Parker of the bureau of agricultural economics, Washington, D. C., H. H. Whiteside of the federal hay inspection service, Chicago, and B. B. Jones of the Wisconsin department of markets, Madison.

BLANCHE SWEET IN SMALL TOWN ROLE

From the role of a blase girl of the streets, regenerated by the influence of the sea in a new "Anna Christie," Blanche Sweet has been transformed into a demure, unobtrusive small-town girl. The script calls for a complete metamorphosis to a world-wise young woman of New York's underworld society, who uses this guise to save her brother from the clutches of a bootlegging gang of foreigners. "Those Who Dance," a First National offering, is being shown at Elite theater tonight for the last time.

A DRAMA OF THRILLS IS "UNSEEING EYES"

What in many respects is the most thrilling motion picture ever woven around life in the North woods is that which the Cosmopolitan Corporation made from Arthur Stringer's story, which will be shown at the Elite theatre, beginning tomorrow. Three quarters of the film were made in the open and the company was on location around Banff and Lake Louise for at least six weeks.

"THE COUNTY FAIR"

Do not miss Maurice Tourneur's screen story of "The County Fair," which is on view at the New Bijou now. It is the biggest thing of the kind ever shown and has all the fun and excitement of a day at the fair crowded into a tale which reaches its climax in the best horse race ever flashed before the camera. A great all-star cast is also in it, including such stellar favorites as Wesley Barry, the delight of all kids; David Butler and dainty Helen Jerome Eddy.

The fair grounds with the shows, the dancers, the village band tooting away for dear life, the prancing horses on their way to the starting post for the great race, untamed American youth running wild in a riot of sport and fun and all the panoply and stir of a fair day in any ordinary community are the outstanding things which endear this story to the heart of America and make it redolent of the soil from which it springs.

It is to be seen here today and Thursday at the New Bijou theatre, and if you would renew your youth do not miss it, and if you are young and like the fun it will make you happier than you are and it is all good wholesome entertainment which extolls honesty and overthrows meanness in a morally convincing way.

COUNT SEEKS BIDS FOR BUILDING TWO BRIDGES

Plans and specifications presented by A. G. Brusewitz county highway commissioner, for the construction of the Welshoff bridge in Cicero and the Dale bridge, were accepted by the county highway committee Monday afternoon. The commissioner was instructed to advertise for contractors' bids immediately. Both are to be of concrete structure, the Dale bridge to be a 10-foot span and the Welshoff bridge a 25-foot span.

The Lesson of Economy

The principle of conservation, through efficient management and rigid economy, is so ingrained in the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) as to be fundamental to the operation of this business.

Years ago, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) learned that the only way to keep a big business on a thoroughly efficient plane is to plug up the small leaks. Accordingly, painstaking attention was given to ways and means of overcoming wasteful details, unimportant and inexpensive in themselves, but taken as a whole assuming enormous proportions.

The practice of economy is thoroughly grounded in the personnel of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and has profoundly influenced the activities of the Company.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is the unquestioned pioneer of conservation methods in the oil business.

Back of every important innovation made by this Company stand these questions: "Does this change improve the quality and service?—Does it effect a saving?"

For example, the famous Burton Cracking Process now in general use was originated to conserve the supply of petroleum—to produce a greater percentage of gasoline from crude oil, without in any way affecting the quality of lubricating oils and other primary products.

The Burton Cracking Process has increased largely the yield of gasoline from a barrel of crude, thereby exerting a marked influence in keeping the price of gasoline low.

Conservation led to the erection of farms of steel tanks—to insure a constant supply of crude petroleum—to enable the refiner to reduce his cost by continuous operations—to store the finished product without undue loss from evaporation.

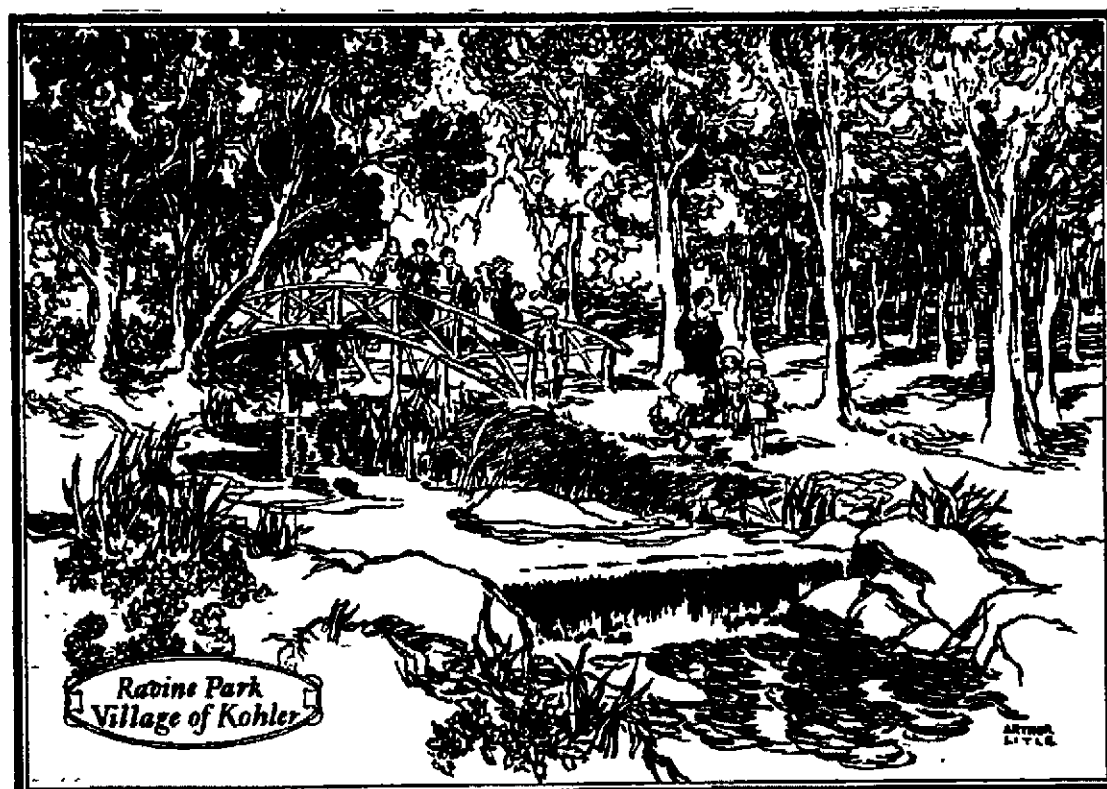

Conservation again was back of the establishment of pipe lines, because they were the most economical method of transporting oil.

The conservation idea led finally to the vast distribution system which covers the ten Middle Western States and carries petroleum products from the refineries of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to farms, factories and individual users, everywhere.

The practice of economy and conservation has been a potent force in developing the splendid system which this Company offers to the thirty million people of the Middle West.

We are BUILDING a VILLAGE

SOME years ago we moved our factory into the country where the air is sweet and the fields green. And then we built a village there to live in.

We are still building that village. And, because it was planned with foresight, it is growing and will continue to grow as we dreamed it—a garden-spot of happy homes which no ugly encroachments can ever mar.

Landscape architects and city-planners from all over the world—men who are only politely interested in our enameled plumbing ware and electric power and light plants—come to Kohler to study this village development.

Before they leave they know, with us, that out of the environment in which we live, an intangible improving quality is passing into every product which bears the Kohler mark.
